AIR DISASTERS CLAIM HIGH TOLL

TWO CHILDREN CARRIED FROM BURNING HOME

Christmas Morning Blaze Damages Duff Residence on Atcheson Avenue.

Two small children were carried to safety early Christmas morning when flames, which started in an overstuffed chair, threatened to destroy their Atheson avenue home.

Firemen said fire broke out in the home of Robert Duff, 224 Atcheson avenue, around 1:45 a. m. The blaze destroyed the chair and burned a four-foot hole in the floor of a room, they said.

The Duff's two children, Robert and Marilyn, were asleep in a second floor bedroom. The parents were not at home.

Firemen were unable to give the name of a neighbor who removed the children from their beds before the firefighters arrived.

Cigaret Blmed.

Firemen expressed belief the blaze started when a relative living at the home fell asleep in the chair with a lighted cigaret in his hand. They were unable to identify the man.

Minor damage to the eaves of the home of Mike Coreck, 76 Granite avenue, was caused by a fire about 8:30 a. m today.

Around 1 a. m. today firemen were called to the Westinghouse corporation's Vitreos Enameling plant, East Fourth street, where a short circuit in a solenoid switch caused a minor fire.

Furnace Caus Fire.

An overheated furnace at the home of Herbert Inderkin, 38 West Arch street yesterday caused a fire which burned a small hole in a floor, firemen reported. The blaze occurred around noon.

At 9 p. m. yesterday firemen were called to the home of Walter Hitchcock, 117 South Adams street, where rubbish was afire in a basement. There was no damage.

GOP ATTACKS SUGAR POLICY

WASHINGTON —(INS)— A possible Republican move to abolish sugar controls in 1947 was foreshadowed today by a GOP congressional food study committee report bitterly assailing the government's sugar policy.

Rep. Jenkins (R) Ohio, committee chairman, struck at the "government's senseless fear of a wartime sugar surplus." He said each household consumer should receive at least 10 pounds more sugar in 1947 than in 1946. He suggested a 20 percent increase for industrial users.

At the same time, Sen. Butler (R) Neb., criticized the Democratic administration for what he called the "sugar mess" and urged an immediate lifting of controls.

Jenkins differed with Butler on ending the controls now but declared rationing and price ceilings should be relaxed and then completely abolished later in 1947.

Jenkins' report declared the 1946 shortage was "chiefly the direct result of the administration's policy of sharing the relatively adequate supplies produced in our normal production areas with other countries."

IMPENETRABLE FOG HALTS EXPLORATION

ABOARD U. S. S. MT. OLYMPUS WITH BYRD EXPEDITION —(UP)— An impenetrable antarcitic fog closed down the advance ships of "operations high jump" today, preventing them from beginning their regular exploratory air operations of the Polar Victoria land.

The destroyer Henderson and the seaplane tender Currituck—two of the advance vessels—sent word to the flag ship that, for the past two days, they have sent out helicopters and flying boats over the century-old glaciers and ice-mantled mountain ranges in preliminary explorations.

OES Backs Higher Pay for Teachers

COLUMBUS —(AP)— The Ohio Education association will begin its annual meeting tonight with recommendations for establishment of a minimum salary for teachers among the things it will consider.

The organization, which functions as the school lobby, also will consider proposals for raising state support for schools from $59,000,000 annually to $82,000,000.

Five 'Holiday Babies' Arrive In Mansfield

Five little Christmas "packages" were delivered yesterday by white capped and gowned "santas" at Mansfield General hospital.

Wrapped in bunting instead of gaily colored paper and gay ribbon, the packages contained four boys and one girl.

The little feminine bundle went to Mr. and Mrs. Philip Flickinger, 350 Ninth avenue, while the boys were presented to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Martin, Lucas; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schuster, Ontario; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Roth, 181½ Coul street, and Mr. and Mrs. John Schuchmann, 639 Park avenue west.

Missing a Christmas birthday by a matter of hours were a son to Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Shaffer, R. D. 4, and a daughter, born to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Everly of Butler.

PARTY QUARREL CAUSING SPLIT IN GOP RANKS

Coalition in Making to Fight New York's Gov. Dewey.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A potentially powerful coalition of anti-Dewey Republicans and southern Democrats appeared likely today to develop as a result of the bitter row within GOP ranks over the post of house majority leader.

To a large degree, the controversy had reflected the behind the scenes jockeying between the forces favoring the presidential aspirations of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York and Ohio's still undetermined choice.

With Dewey's support, Rep. Halleck (Ind.) generally had been conceded the inside rail in the floor leadership contest. Reps. Jenkins (Ohio) and Dirksen (Ill.) were the other announced candidates, and Rep. Brown (Ohio) declared himself "available."

As an example of the heat engendered within the party, Rep. Hoffman (Mich.) lashed out today at what he called "a small clique" of house Republicans "hogging all the jobs and trying to run things."

While Brown has gone no further publicly than to declare himself available for the leadership post, he appeared to be the rallying point for all anti-Dewey Republicans in the house.

Some members of this group contended that it represents at least a half-hundred GOP votes.

The prospects were that an open break between the two factions would be avoided in the interest of on-the-surface harmony before congress convenes next week. But the Brown group—if it retains its solidarity—will be in a strategic trading position.

In advance of any such peacemaking pow-wow, Brown privately has expressed his determination to fight any modification of the program he laid down during the fall's congressional campaign. That program was aimed chiefly at an early end to all federal controls developed during the Roosevelt-Truman administration.

And the Ohioan has made it clear that he will look to all quarters in attaining this objective, including the southern Democrats. Many of these members have voiced equally bitter objections against strong federal government controls, and it was largely their teamwork with Republicans which stalemated big chunks of President Truman's 1945-46 legislative program.

HERO'S WIFE DIES BEFORE USING HOME

NASHPORT —(AP)— Mrs. Melvin Mayfield, 24, wife of a medal hero winner who courted her in letters from the foxholes of the Pacific, died yesterday of complications following birth of a son last Nov. 30.

She was Mayfield's step-sister and accompanied the former infantry corporal when he was awarded the military honor at Columbus last April.

The little white frame house across the street from the Nashport post office had been prepared for the Luzon war hero's family before the birth of little James Robert. Her subsequent illness prevented Mrs. Mayfield from visiting the new home.

FIRE RAZES C

PHILADELPHIA — A The Pen and Pencil club, oldest newspapermen's club in the U. S. was razed by fire yesterday shortly after patrons and employes had left.

'Talking Gloves' Save Aged Man From Complete Oblivion

WARREN —(AP)— At 93, Linus Bushnell, a retired farmer of nearby Johnston, is both blind and deaf but his knuckles and fingernails lift him out of the silence and darkness.

Just before cataracts finally obscured his vision and voices faded into nothingness, he learned a system whereby people could communicate the events of the world and his community to him by tapping on his knuckles and nails.

Mrs. Ida Bettiker, his widowed daughter, had appealed for help to a friend, Archer Diehl of Cortland, former educator.

"Can you help us?" she asked. "Father is slipping into oblivion."

A day later Diehl had prepared charts showing two hands. On each knuckle and fingernail was a letter or numeral. Bishnell learned the location of these letters and numerals with relation to his own hands. For instance, the knuckle at the base of the little finger was lettered "A," the knuckle next to it "B."

Then Diehl realized the only persons who could talk to Bushnell by this method were those who also had memorized the location of the letters and numerals.

So he devised a pair of gloves with the knuckles and tips actually marked with the letters and numerals. Thus, anyone can talk to Bushnell if he puts on the gloves. They simply spell out words by tapping the letters. A brush of the hand over the glove tells him when one word has been finished.

GOVERNORSHIP DIVIDES STATE

ATLANTA, Ga.—(INS)—Legislators today continued to choose sides in Georgia's unprecedented battle for the Governorship.

Death of Eugene Talmadge three weeks before he was scheduled to assume the governor's chair for the fourth time created the unusual situation, and opened the field to his son, Herman, and to Lt.-Gov.-Elect M. E. Thompson, who has the support of the incumbent, Ellis Arnall.

Battle over who will serve as chief executive for the 1947-50 term is expected to consume the opening sessions of the general assembly next month.

Supporters of Talmadge are rallying behind the youthful Herman, a navy veteran, on the basis of "write-in" votes he received for governor in the general election last November.

Gov. Arnall asserted in a formal statement Tuesday that he intended to remain in office until Thompson was qualified and then resign in favor of Georgia's first lieutenant governor under the new constitution.

BILBO PREPARES TO STRIKE BACK

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Senator Bilbo (D-Miss), an associate said today, is prepared to raise some "embarrassing" questions if his colleagues seek to make an issue of his dealings with war contractors.

Senator Elmer Thomas (D-Okla) told reporters that Bilbo has had "a bunch of people" investigating other senators' connections with contractors, and is prepared to parry questions directed against him with "a record of what other people have done."

The Senate War Investigating committee is weighing a subcommittee's report on Bilbo's relations with a group of Mississippi contractors in the early days of the nation's defense program. While the report has not been made public, the public hearing went into stories of favors done for the Mississippi senator by men aided in obtaining multi-million dollar air field contracts.

STORK, SANTA RACE

CLEVELAND—(INS)—The story and Santa Claus today called their Christmas day race in Cleveland a good one. Not to be outdone by St. Nick in leaving bundles of cheer, the stork brought 67 babies in Cleveland hospitals yesterday.

MUCH COLDER DUE TONIGHT

That bright, crisp weather Mansfielders enjoyed yesterday for Christmas won't last. The weatherman said that it will be much colder tonight.

Occasional snow flurries will accompany the downward slide of the mercury. Temperatures are expected to average some 15 degrees or more lower than last night's reading of 29.

At noon today the mercury stood at 32, two degrees below yesterday's high of 34.

Although most Mansfielders spent a quiet day around the Yule tree yesterday, youngsters found the weather ideal to try out new sleds on streets still lightly coated with ice from the week-end fall.

Warmest spot in the state was Cincinnati which recorded a high of 40 degrees yesterday with clear skies overhead. Cleveland's high reading was 36 and Columbus averaged the same reading as Mansfield.

STEEL WORKER GORED BY BULL AT FARM HOME

Bucyrus Farmer Also Victim of Angry Animal.

Michael N. Sauer, 49-year-old Empire steel worker, was seriously injured yesterday when he was gored by an angry bull while doing the chores on his farm on the Lexington-Springmill road.

It was the second instance in four days of a farmer being seriously injured by an angry bull.

Sauer's condition was reported as "critical" today at Mansfield General hospital where he was admitted a few minutes after the accident at 6 p. m.

Members of Sauer's family reported today that he had gone to the barnyard to do the evening chores and had taken a three-year-old, 2,200-pound Holstein from the barn to the water trough.

The family said that the injured man made his way to the house where he was rushed by other members of the family to the General hospital.

Meanwhile, Chester W. Hart, 38-year-old farmer of Bucyrus, R. D. 3, was reported improving at Bucyrus City hospital after being trampled by a bull Saturday.

Hart escaped possible death by quick-thinking. He loosened his belt and used it to secure the bull's nose ring.

Despite suffering a fractured left collarbone, fractured ribs, torn ligaments of the right leg and a punctured lung, Hart was able to crawl out of reach of the animal.

POLICE CHECK MYSTERY DEATH

McARTHUR — (INS) — The body of an attractive young bride found crammed into an outhouse of a one-room rural school was identified today as that of Mrs. Iris Cowen Barnett, 18, of Radcliff, near McArthur.

Sheriff William W. Brown said the body of the pretty, brown-haired girl, who was married last spring, showed no signs of violence and that the cause of death had not yet been determined.

The girl's husband, Guy Barnett, 20, who lives west of McArthur, said he had taken his wife to her home last Thursday for the Christmas holidays and had not seen her since.

Brown said Mrs. Barnett's body apparently had been unloaded from an auto Christmas eve. It was dumped, face forward and in a kneeling position, into the tiny building.

She was clad in rumpled green corduroy slacks and a green jacket, and her hair was disheveled, Brown stated.

The sheriff found auto tracks indicating that an auto had backed down to the small building. Two young couples, out for a Christmas afternoon ride, noticed the door ajar and reported to the sheriff's office that someone "dead or drunk" was inside.

Stalin Healthy, States Visitor

NEW YORK — (UP) — Premier Josef V. Stalin looked "extremely well" when he visited him last Saturday, Elliott Roosevelt said upon his arrival here from a six weeks' tour of Russia and Poland.

"We visited Stalin in Moscow on his birthday Dec. 21," Roosevelt said. "We had a very nice time. I can say very definitely regarding his health that he looked extremely well."

9 Passengers, 3 Crew Members Missing In Overdue U. S. Plane

62 Die as 3 Planes Plunge to Earth At Shanghai

SHANGHAI — (AP) — Three Chinese airliners, loaded with more than 100 persons anticipating gay Christmas parties here, cracked up in the fog-blanketed Shanghai area last night, killing or injuring 85 persons. One American pilot was killed and another injured.

A fourth transport was missing and feared lost with at least 10 persons aboard.

Yesterday was the blackest in China's civilian aviation history.

The American owned Shanghai Evening Post and Mercury reported 62 passengers and crewmen were killed and 19 were injured, some so critically they may not survive.

* * *

Plane Hits House.

A Chinese woman was killed and her three children were injured when one of the transports crashed into her farm home near Woosung.

Shanghai papers earlier had reported 76 were killed aboard the three planes, but revised their figures downward.

The Post and Mercury said two of the victims were Americans—Capt. J. M. Greenwood, who was killed, and R. B. Preus, injured seriously. Their home addresses were not given.

Greenwood and Preus were piloting two of the crashed planes, both owned by the Chinese National Aviation corporation, the country's leading airline. It employs many Americans as pilots. The third plane was owned by the Central Air Transport corporation, also a Chinese company.

All three pilots fought desperately to land their planes safely after being caught unexpectedly by fog and rain. They could not turn back because the field they had left lacked night landing facilities. Their fuel supplies were exhausted while they tried to make blind landings at Shanghai.

The three crashed planes were en route to Shanghai from Chungking.

Girl Near End Of Long Trip For Operation

OAKLAND, Cal. —(INS)— A 16-year-old Australian girl was completing the last lap today of a trip halfway around the world to have a nail removed from her lung.

She is brown-eyed Shirley Skinner who, with her mother, boarded an Australian National Airways Skymaster at Melbourne last Sunday and landed in Oakland on Christmas day.

At Oakland, Shirley gave up her idea of continuing the trip by air to Philadelphia and boarded a transcontinental train.

The American Red Cross took Shirley in tow in order to make her train trip more in keeping with the holidays. Her train stateroom was decorated with a Christmas tree and presents were supplied for her.

However, it proved to be her second Christmas, for the crew aboard the Australian plane had given Shirley and her mother, Mrs. Muriel Laura Skinner, a yuletide party.

Shirley swallowed the nail when she was two years old. But it was not until she got a bad cold last July that she began having severe chest pains. An operation to remove the nail was ordered and a Philadelphia specialist was recommended.

BULBOUS-NOSED W. C. FIELDS DIES IN SANITARIUM

Quipped With Nurses Until Few Hours Before Death.

PASADENA, Calif. —(UP)— Bulbous-nosed W. C. Fields, 66, vaudevillian and movie comic whose capacity for liquor finally became a matter of court record, died Christmas day in a sanitarium where for months he had been under treatment for a liver ailment.

Nurses said he quipped with them until, a few hours before his death, he slipped into a coma. Although he had been troubled by liver and kidney ailments for two years, physicians said the immediate cause of death was a dropsical condition. Born Claude William Dukinfield in Philadelphia, Jan. 29, 1880, he revised his last name, reversed his initials and graduated from a $5 a week juggler to the Ziegfeld Follies and ultimately into films.

W. C. Fields

Nine years ago, a physician sued Fields for $12,000 for 23 days of hospital treatment. Fields retorted in a cross-complaint that the doctor's methods retarded his recovery, to which the physician replied that the comic's habit of drinking two quarts a day was the impeding factor.

Target for Gags.

"Nonsense," Fields belolwed, in the best buffoon manner. "I never drank two quarts a day, not even in the good old days. Right now I'm a teetotaler."

The judge awarded the doctor $12.00, but Fields later pared the figure to $2,000.

He was a frequent target for gags from other comics and only yesterday—on a special Christmas broadcast—his close friend, Bob Hope aimed a bamb in Field's direction, not knowing that the latter was already dead. Informed of it later, Hope said he made Fields a frequent target because the latter got "such a big kick out of it."

Always a Showman.

The comedian had no use for a script. He would just get a fair idea of the movie story and ad lib it from there. The same was true on the air and many a radio executive spent frightening moments while Fields deviated from the written (and censored) script. A true showman, he was the master of any situation. During one theater engagement an assistant fell against a backdrop and brought the painting of houses on a New York street crashing to the stage. Fields saved the day by remarking, "They don't put up buildings like they used to."

About the only time he stuck to the script was when he played Cicawber in the picturization of Dickens' "David Copperfield." "Even then I could think of some snappy ways to read the lines," he said.

RUSSIANS START POLAR EXPEDITION

MOSCOW — (AP) — A Russian whaling flotilla consisting of 10 ships was reported en route to the Antarctic today under the leadership of the Soviet explorer Voronin.

Departure of the expedition was announced yesterday by the Russian press, which said the vessels would be met off Gibraltar by the Soviet tanker Pamin, which will supply them with fuel. The flotilla was said to include nine whalers and a large supply ship.

Search Goes on for Airliner Missing Near San Diego

SAN DIEGO, Cal.—(UP)—A heavy fog blanket over the towering Laguna mountains today hid the fate of 12 passengers aboard a Western airliner which disappeared on a Christmas eve flight.

Fog so thick it forced patrol planes to fly by instrument halted the search, centered 60 miles east of here, at sundown last night. The coast guard said its planes would be back in the air at dawn today.

Scores of deputy sheriffs, ranchers, and forest rangers who had been combing the mountains on foot and on horseback also called off the search. A party of eight, led by Rudy Frowiss of El Centro, Calif., brother-in-law of passenger Edgar Martin, continued through the night.

Chances for survivors among the nine holiday-bound passengers and three crew members appeared poor. Ranchers and three high school boys reported they saw a flash and a fire in the mountains 11 minutes after the two-engined DC-3 made its last radio report, and a housewife who also saw the flash said it was followed by an explosion.

* * *

Pilot Sees Wreckage.

Coast guard Pilot Lt. Ira McMullen reported he saw a "silver tail through the overcast" 10 miles east of Mount Laguna and other wreckage scattered over a wide area. Visibility was so poor that searchers were unable to identify the wreckage definitely.

The rugged Laguna mountain area has been the scene of frequent plane crashes, including that of an American airliner last March 3 with a loss of 28 lives.

The heavy fog made aerial reconnaissance almost impossible yesterday, although three navy planes and a Western airliner droned continuously over the mountains. Hunting on foot and horseback was slowed by manzanita brush often 20 feet tall that bearded the slopes.

WAL officials said they had not given up hope for the passengers and crew, pointing out that radio transmission is notoriously difficult in the mountain area. Deputy sheriffs felt however that any survivors would have been able to reach communications or make some signal by this time.

1 DIES, 2 HURT IN GUN BATTLE

AKRON — (INS) — One man was killed today and three others, including two policemen, were wounded in a gun battle in Akron.

Nick Kalavity, 73, was slain. James Schalker, 36, and Joe Thomas, 35, both patrolmen, were wounded in the leg. Edwin J. Everhart, 25, suffered a serious abdominal wound.

Kalavity, according to police, opened fire on the two patrolmen when they went to investigate an exchange of gunshots between him and Everhart.

Kalavity barricaded himself in a room and refused to surrender. The patrolmen used tear gas in an effort to drive him from the enclosure.

When he failed to come out, they broke into the room and found him dead from gunshot wounds.

OHIO FARMERS FACE LOWERED INCOME IN '47

AAA Expert Foresees Slash In High Crop Prices.

By FREEMAN FULBRIGHT

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Ohio farmers tasted the cream of their latter-day prosperity in 1946. Income in 1947 possibly will be somewhat less, as it was in the second years after the war of 1812, the civil war, and World War I.

Such is the history book interpretation of Elmer Kruse of the U. S. Agriculture department. Kruse is boss of farm production work for the AAA in Ohio.

He believes that a period of "natural adjustment" will begin during 1947, and that high prices now received by farmers will recess.

Kruse summed up his predictions by crops thusly:

"Wheat—the prospects are good, but the export demand is bound to slacken. Prices may slacken with a big crop.

"Corn—prices already reflect the enormous crops of the past years.

"Hogs—I do not look for prices to break before late summer because of the short supply.

"Milk—the market will not continue as strong, although it should maintain a good level. The demand is greater than the overall possible production.

"Poultry—unless farmers are careful, eggs may hit a low price by spring. Also, it is more strongly indicated that prices of poultry for meat will drop when beef and pork supplies increase."

This past year, Kruse said, Ohio farmers enjoyed considerable success, not only from the standpoint of overall income, but also from the point of production.

The demise of price controls in the latter half of the year did much to increase the farmers' incomes, he said.

The Buckeye wheat crop was "unusually good," averaging 24 bushels to the acre for a total indicated harvest of near 50 million bushels.

This output was 10 million bushels below that of '45, but higher prices brought the farmer almost the same return.

Estimated total corn yield for this year was 183 million bushels, compared with 176 million bushels in 1945. Kruse said the export program helped farmers financially with their corn.

Ohio ranked fourth behind Iowa, Illinois and Indiana in soybean output with an indicated crop of 18 million bushels.

Although acreage planted was far below the five year average, Ohio's potato crop was estimated at 7,280,000 bushels.

Tobacco Yield Down.

The tobacco yield was down from 22,670,000 pounds in '45 to 22,285,000, and first sales late in the year indicated a "slippage of 10 cents a pound."

Buckeye farmers turned out 225,000 short tons of sugar beets this year, compared with 208,000 tons in 1945, and prices were better.

Milk production reached an all-time high of 5,460,000 pounds—an average of 5,100 pounds for each of the 1,082,000 dairy cows on Ohio farms.

Chickens numbered 29,221,000 head, and turkeys, 1,097,000 head. Kruse said the turkey market was not as strong as previously because of the increased supplies of other meats during the gobbler season.

Three billion eggs were estimated to have been produced in the state during the year. The actual count by Oct. 1 was 2,404,000,000.

Predicts More Hogs.

Hog production was down, Kruse added, and prices were strong. He blamed the short output on the unfavorable ratio of feed prices to pork prices under OPA. He said he believed there would be a "considerably larger" crop of porkers next year.

In 1945 there were 350,000 pigs in spring litters, compared with 400,000 this year. Kruse estimated a litter figure of 460,000 for '47.

Beef cattle increased steadily in number during 1946, the AAA chief continued. At the beginning of the year there were 99,000 head on farms in the state. The five year average is 62,000 head. Kruse 109,000 head by the first of 1947.

The sheep population continued a downward trend begun six years ago. At the end of the year there were an estimated 1,275,000 head in Ohio, compared with a five-year average of 1,952,000 head.

Kruse was gloomy about the future wool mart, saying there was practically enough wool in government warehouses to run the country for the next year.

Ohio fruits varied in yield throughout the state, crops totaling about 60 per cent of normal.

The production expert predicted that farmers would be less troubled with a shortage of labor during the new year, although still plagued by the lack of new, adequate machinery.

JUST A SLIGHT ERROR

CANTON, Okla.—(AP)—A. T. Stairs, inspecting an apartment house he had constructed, watched as the utilities were turned on. Suddenly water began spurting out of the new gas ranges and bathroom heaters. Investigation revealed the plumbers had connected the water to the gas pipe, and the gas fixtures to the water pipe.

ITALY FACING SHOWDOWN BY RIVAL FORCES

By JOHN P. McKNIGHT

ROME —(AP)— The inescapable logic of events, combined with the rivalries of her public men, appears to be pushing Italy inexorably toward the long-predicted showdown between her fast coalescing right and left.

A house divided against itself since the republic edged out the Savoy monarchy in the June 2 plebiscite, Italy has marveled at the political acrobatics which kept Premier Alcide de Gasperi's four-party government precariously perched on the tight rope of power.

Now, however, although there are few to say that the rest of the act's run could be counted in days or weeks, there are many to agree that the chief factor in its difficult balance—the desire to keep the balance—is disappearing.

If Socialist Foreign Minister Petro Nenni, ardent exponent of "joint action" with the Communists, was not getting ready to kick the four-party combine to pieces and try to set up a worker's government, then he was talking through his beret this last weekend.

And if de Gasperi's middle-of-the-road Christian Democrats, disgusted with the fruits of four months of attempting to work with the left were not actually standing on the doorstep of the renascent right, they certainly were sauntering in that direction.

To complicate matters, the little Republican party, fourth group represented in the government, was reported preparing to take a "plague o' both your houses

Chinese Eager to Try Pu Yi, Puppet Ruler of Manchuria

SHANGHAI—(U.P.)—With Wang Ching-wei, puppet Nanking government president, dead and his successor Chen Kung-po executed, the Chinese still are eager to bring Henry Pu Yi before their war-crimes court.

Much resentment was felt by the Chinese over delay by the Russians in handing over the "boy emperor" to the Chinese government. It was felt that Moscow, well aware of the Chinese intention to put Pu Yi on trial, could have surrendered the wanted man to the Chinese representatives in Tokyo instead of keeping him at the Soviet Embassy and stressing that the twice-deposed monarch, while testifying at the Japanese war crimes trial, is still "in Russian custody."

If ever handed over to the Chinese government and if ever placed before the Chinese court to face treason charges, the trial of Pu Yi is expected to reveal the intimate and intricate secrets of the Forbidden City fom the days when Empress Dowager Tzu Hsi picked the little boy for the Chinese "dragon throne" to Henry's eviction from the palaces to live in Tientsin, where he became the central figure in repeated restoration plots.

Chosen by Empress.

Chinese historians agree that Pu Yi never would have been emperor of China if it was not for Empress Tzu Hsi's ambition to rule the country behind the scene. As it was, the thin, bespectacled, thicklipped, slope-shouldered man spent the greater portion of his life as a puppet.

If the all-powerful empress dowager had strictly observed the Manchu rules of succession, she would not have chosen Pu Yi as emperor. He happened to be the youngest of the princes of blood and his father happened to be the Empress' close friend. So at the age of four, he ascended the throne of the Empire of China. There he remained for three eventful years—a puppet of his great aunt and later his own father.

Removed from the throne on February 12, 1912, after the republican revolution, Pu Yi was accorded special privileges to remain in the Forbidden City, to be treated as a foreign monarch. The peace treaty with the republican government provided that he was to be paid $4,000,000 annually for the upkeep of the imperial family.

Stays in Forbidden City.

Still an emperor, to his immediate family and the die-hard royalist, Pu Yi resided inside the palaces within the thick yellow walls for the next 16 years. Then the many civil wars of the young republic touched the Forbidden City. Henry and his family fled to Tientsin, where they converted a large mansion into a miniature Forbidden City.

It was there that Pu Yi was contacted by the Japanese and eventually taken to Manchuria in 1932 to be chief executive of the newly inaugurated Manchurian government, and later Emperor Kang Teh of Manchukuo.

He remained on the Japanese-installed throne for 13 years—a puppet again, this time with the Japanese pulling the strings.

When and if the trial of Pu Yi opens, it is expected that the defense would air grievances which were known to have been cherished by the former "boy emperor" against the Chinese Republic. He would show that he was cut off from the promised annual allowance shortly after the peace pact was signed, and that he and his family were driven away from the Forbidden City despite earlier agreements that they might remain indefinitely.

But the big question remains: When will the Russians hand him over to the Chinese government?

His Long Legs Beat the Bus

SYRACUSE, N. Y.—(AP)—If the Syracuse Transit company had to depend on persons like Gordon R. Johnson for patronage, it would go broke.

During the 13 years Johnson has been a license clerk at City Hall, he reports, he has taken the bus only twice. Both times it was raining hard.

Buses are uncomfortable for his six foot two-inch frame.

"If I get a seat my knees are jammed up against the seat in front and if I have to stand my head is bouncing off the ceiling," he added.

SOLVES PROBLEM

PORTLAND, Ore.—(INS)—Rev. George E. Hardy could find neither a house nor a car at his new post at Highland Baptist church. He solved these problems by housing his wife and child with a church family and uses a bicycle to call on his flock.

Bedtime Stories

RUMOR REACHES PADDY

"My dear," said Paddy the Beaver to Mrs. Paddy, "sometimes I think we are the only people in the Green Forest who know how to live."

They were in their comfortable living room which also was their bedroom. It was dark in there, for of course there were no windows and the doorway was in the floor opening into a water-filled tunnel. You know their house stands out in a pond of their own making. They didn't mind the darkness. Like so many of the folks in fur they have eyes adapted to darkness and prefer the darkness of night to the brightness of day.

Mrs. Paddy stopped chewing the bark she had just stripped from an aspen stick to say that she had known that as long as she could remember. "I really don't know how some people manage to live through winter," she concluded.

"Nor do I," replied Paddy, turning a stick to get at the bark on the other side. "Certainly none live more comfortably. We haven't a thing in the world to worry about, not a thing."

"Not even the weather," agreed Mrs. Paddy.

"Not even the weather," said Paddy. "Snow, sleet, rain, sunshine, it is all the same to us. Rough Brother North Wind might as well save his breath so far as we are concerned, for half the time we don't even know he is around. Jack Frost can't touch us. We never go hungry, for we can always get what we need from our food-pile under the ice and do it without danger, exposure or discomfort of any kind. We eat when we are hungry, sleep when we want to, go swimming under the ice for exercise if we feel like it, and do these things without even having to keep watch for enemies. There is nothing whatever to worry about, nothing at all."

"Excepting one thing," said Mrs. Paddy as she pulled off another piece of bark and began chewing it.

"What thing?" demanded Paddy.

"The dam. A leak in the dam could lead to a break, and that would mean trouble and perhaps real danger," replied Mrs. Paddy mildly.

"That isn't a worry and never will be as long as we look the dam over every day and stop little leaks when we find them," retorted Paddy. "That reminds me that I haven't been over to the dam today. I've eaten all the bark from this stick so I'll take it over there just in case there is some use for it," he added.

Taking the bare stick he disappeared through the doorway in the floor. Mrs. Paddy kept on eating until she had taken all the bark from her stick. Then she took it outside, changed her mind about taking it over to the dam, left it outside the house and returned inside to curl up for a nap. She awoke when Paddy returned.

"Did you have a leak in the dam to fix? You've been gone a long time," said she sleepily.

"There was no leak. The dam is all right. I went over to that little open place where the water comes into our pond just to put my head out for a look around on the chance I might pick up a bit of news," replied Paddy.

"Did you?" asked Mrs. Paddy without interest.

"I heard a rumor," said Paddy.

"What was it?" Mrs. Paddy wanted to know.

"I heard that little Joe Otter has been seen near where our brook joins the Big River," Paddy explained.

"That is a long, long way from here, so why worry?" said Mrs. Paddy, and yawned.

"I'm not worrying," retorted Paddy indignantly. "Just the same I hope he'll stay there," he added.

If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you

RUMOR REACHES PADDY

"My dear," said Paddy the Beaver to Mrs. Paddy, "sometimes I think we are the only people in the Green Forest who know how to live."

They were in their comfortable living room which also was their bedroom. It was dark in there, for of course there were no windows and the doorway was in the floor opening into a water-filled tunnel. You know their house stands out in a pond of their own making. They didn't mind the darkness. Like so many of the folks in fur they have eyes adapted to darkness and prefer the darkness of night to the brightness of day.

Mrs. Paddy stopped chewing the bark she had just stripped from an aspen stick to say that she had known that as long as she could remember. "I really don't know how some people manage to live through winter," she concluded.

"Nor do I," replied Paddy, turning a stick to get at the bark on the other side. "Certainly none live more comfortably. We haven't a thing in the world to worry about, not a thing.

"Not even the weather," agreed Mrs. Paddy.

"Not even the w e a t h e r," said Paddy. "Snow, sleet, rain, sunshine, it is all the same to us. Rough Brother North Wind might as well save his breath so far as we are concerned, for half the time we don't even know he is around. Jack Frost can't touch us. We never go hungry, for we can always get what we need from our food-pile under the ice and do it without danger, exposure or discomfort of any kind. We eat when we are hungry, sleep when we want to, go swimming under the ice for exercise if we feel like it, and do these things without even having to keep watch for enemies. There is nothing whatever to worry about, nothing at all."

"Excepting one thing," said Mrs. Paddy as she pulled off another piece of bark and began chewing it.

"What thing?" d e m a n d e d Paddy.

"The dam. A leak in the dam could lead to a break, and that would mean trouble and perhaps real danger," replied Mrs. Paddy mildly.

"That isn't a worry and never will be as long as we look the dam over every day and stop little leaks when we find them," retorted Paddy. "That reminds me that I haven't been over to the dam today. I've eaten all the bark from this stick so I'll take it over there just in case there is some use for it," he added.

Taking the bare stick he disappeared through the doorway in the floor. Mrs. Paddy kept on eating until she had taken all the bark from her stick. Then she took it outside, changed her mind about taking it over to the dam, left it outside the house and returned inside to curl up for a nap. She awoke when Paddy returned.

"Did you have a leak in the dam to fix? You've been gone a long time," said she sleepily.

"There was no leak. The dam is all right. I went over to that little open place where the water comes into our pond just to put my head out for a look around on the chance I might pick up a bit of news," replied Paddy.

"Did you?" asked Mrs. Paddy without interest.

"I heard a rumor," said Paddy.

"What was it?" Mrs. Paddy wanted to know.

"I heard that little Joe Otter has been seen near where our brook joins the Big River," Paddy explained.

"That is a long, long way from here, so why worry?" said Mrs. Paddy, and yawned.

"I'm not worrying," retorted Paddy indignantly. "Just the same I hope he'll stay there," he added.

Circus King John Ringling Left Millions—and Trouble

SARASOTA, Fla. —(AP)— When John Rringling, the circus king, died ten years ago, he left the people of Florida a legacy that includes one of the finest art collections in the world and a 50-room mansion fit for a king.

He also left his sprawling empire in such disorder that it has taken a full decade for executors of the vast estate to unravel the tangled skein of his affairs and clear away the thick underbrush of litigation and claims.

Only now are the executors nearing the end of their gigantic task, hopeful that soon they may turn over the entire fortune to the state of Florida, to which he willed it.

The last of the seven Ringling brothers left an estate valued at between 20 and 30 million dollars, scattered from New York to Texas, and Montana, from Florida to Wisconsin.

He left a mountain of debts, too. Once claims against the estate totaled $11,000.000, with less than $200 cash in the till.

As a business associate remarked, a year after he died:

"If John Ringling had spent his whole life trying to mess up his affairs, and hired two lawyers to help him, he couldn't have done a better job."

Biggest single item in the Ringling riches was not the circus properties but more than 700 works of art which he and his first wife, Mable, collected during 30 years. Authorities say this son of an immigrant German harnessmaker had a natural artistic taste.

Ringling first settled here in 1909. Three years later he bought 154 acres on Sarasota bay. Later he acquired miles along the beach and bayfront.

In 1929 he moved his circus winter quarters here from Bridgeport, Conn., and erected his lavish 50-room home, "Ca Di Zan," on "The House of John." He built a magnificent museum to house his art treasures on an adjacent tract and founded the Ringling School of Art.

Veterans Get 'Art' Pinups

HAMILTON, N. Y. — (AP) — Colgate University fine arts department is offering married veterans on the campus an opportunity to live with expensive paintings in their temporary homes.

A special collection of pictures by famous artists has been made available to students living in Colgate's newly-erected prefabricated homes.

Alfred R. Krakusin, associate professor of fine arts, says the experiment will not only enhance the beauty of the veterans' temporary homes, but will stimulate their interest in art.

127 BILLION SPENT IN '46

WASHINGTON — (INS) — The American public spent a record total of more than 127 billion dollars for goods and services during 1946, climaxed by a ten and a half billion dollar Christmas spending spree.

Preliminary estimates made by the commerce department's office of business economics reveal that Christmas shoppers spent more than two billion dollars more than last year. Total spending for the year was up twenty one billion dollars.

Even more significant is the fact that 1946's consumer outlay was 70 per cent over the prewar peak of 1941. The department hastened to point out, however, that the index of retail prices is up about 40 per cent from the 1941 level and 10 per cent above 1945.

It took 13 years to build Brooklyn Bridge.

DRY YULE TREE WARNING ISSUED

Warnings against dried-out Christmas trees in the home and instructions for the correct disposal of trees were issued today by W. G. Schultz, chairman of the fire prevention committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

"A thousand Christmas trees burn in as many homes each year," Schultz said, adding, "Most of these are after Christmas and after the tree has thoroughly dried out."

Schultz urged that all trees be disposed of by Jan. 2 at the latest, thus eliminating a serious fire hazard to the home.

Inside fireplaces should not be used for burning the discarded tree, the chairman said. The tree should be cut or broken up in small pieces and these burned a few at a time in an incinerator or fireplace that is out doors and away from buildings.

Traffic Ticket Supply Runs Out

YOUNGSTOWN — (INS) — Mayor Ralph W. O'Neill admitted today that Youngstown policemen really were not playing Santa Claus when they failed to give tickets during the holidays for parking violations.

The mayor explained that the traffic department had exhausted its supply of tickets. However, the mayor warned, a new stock is expected any day.

Barclay On Bridge

IN A LARGE proportion of all No Trump game hands, the most important factor to the declarer is starting ply of his side's long suit at the earliest possible moment, before the side re-entries for it have been disturbed. To do this will sometimes necessitate leading away from the honor cards which you would prefer to lead toward. Any trick or tricks sacrificed that way will often be more than outnumbered by the ones you develop on later rounds of the suit.

West led his club 5 against that contract at two tables of a tournament, the 9 winning in each case. Both declarers saw at once that game could not be made except by developing some diamond tricks, so based their plan on scoring in that suit. But they went about it differently.

The first declarer took the spade Q finesse so he could lead toward the diamond K—something anybody would like to do if able, in playing that suit. After the A won, East returned his spade K to knock out South's A as an entry. The second diamond to the 10 fell to the Q. South thereafter was able to get only one diamond trick, with the J, as East still stopped the suit. Three tricks in spades, plus two in hearts, two in clubs and the one in diamonds, made only eight, so declarer was down one.

The other declarer, after winning with the club 9, immediately led the diamond K. The A won, and East used his spade K to knock out the A. Then the diamond 3 to the 10 drove out the Q. The spade 2 was returned to the J and the diamond 6 led, East being allowed to win with the 8. South now was able to bring in the suit, getting two tricks in it, enough to make his game safe.

Warns of Effort to Overturn U. S.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The house committee on un-American activities heard a warning from its chief counsel today of a "conspiracy" to foment revolution in the United States through a general strike or otherwise.

The warning highlighted a report submitted to the committee by Ernie Adamson, who said it summarizes information assembled by his staff during 1946. Although printed by the government printing office, the report has not yet been approved formally by the committee.

Bit of advice: "Don't race trains to crossings. If it's a tie you lose."

Now that Christmas is over, completion of the Friendly House campaign becomes an immediate objective.

Worth pondering: "The successful man doesn't spend all he makes—the failure doesn't make all he spends."

Growth In Profit-Sharing Practice

WHATEVER turn may be taken in labor-management relations during the coming year, there is appearance of a steady trend toward some form of profit-sharing—which may eventually prove a long step toward solution of what are now difficult problems that have grown out of an inclination on the part of some industrialists and business heads to direct the bulk of profits into the hands of a few persons rather than make an equitable distribution among all associated producers.

Pensions, stock distribution, bonuses, and other methods of apportioning surplus profits among employes, have been developing for a long time, with such success as to encourage others to follow a similar course.

Any such policy, naturally, is dependent on the ability of an industry or business to operate at a profit, and it is noteworthy—locally and nationally—that only those firms which are able to maintain high production standards—free from strikes and slowdowns—are in position to share an accumulated surplus.

It is gratifying to note the number of Mansfield industries and businesses that found it possible to make a bonus distribution to employes this year—and this appearance of employe-management accord and realization of mutual interests provides a bright spot in what has been Mansfield's worst year in the matter of wage losses suffered by workers as a result of strikes.

For workers and management alike, it would seem that a study of tried methods of establishing and maintaining pleasant and advantageous relations will prove valuable during the new year—rather than that so much thought be directed toward legislation for which the only need is to curb extremists and self-seeking agitators.

Study of State Control System Pledged

WITH APPEARANCE of quite general recognition that liquor-handling under the Ohio system has created a worse condition than "back in the old saloon days," pledge of the dominant Republican party to make a legislative study of the liquor control system seems well timed.

The projected study is intended to disclose what changes are needed in the present state monopoly system to eliminate evils that have developed during the 13-year trial period—evils that were probably unforeseen by the framers of the law.

The original purpose, it will be remembered, was that the state should maintain a tight rein on the distribution of intoxicants—with efficient law enforcement as the prime objective.

But as the liquor business, through state-operated stores and licensed outlets, mounted to highly profitable proportions the enforcement division was made of secondary importance to the sales division and intended close scrutiny of variously classified retail vendors was sufficiently relaxed to permit development of conditions which make the old-time saloon environment seem relatively wholesome.

After 13 years of unsatisfactory experimentation there can be no objection to such a survey of the record as is contemplated, including comparison with what is being done in other states, some of which appear to have worked out a considerably more effective control system than has been evolved in Ohio.

'Grouchiness' Is Sometimes Defensive

THIS IS a true story and it happened in Mansfield. The names do not matter particularly—nor the date, although it was only a few years ago. A minister learned that one of the members of his congregation was ill. He went to pay a call.

Now it so happened that this congregation member was very wealthy. He had a reputation, also, of being a grouch. When the minister arrived, he said brusquely: "Come in."

The minister entered the house. The two went into the library and chatted of things in general for some twenty minutes. Suddenly the wealthy man exploded: "Well, come to the point. What do you want?"

The minister somewhat taken aback, said: "Why, I don't want anything. I heard you were ill and I just came to see you."

The wealthy man got up and began pacing back and forth before the fireplace. He muttered to himself. "Can you imagine that! He doesn't want anything. He heard I was sick and he came to see me just because of that . . . "

He turned abruptly to the minister. "This is the first time in my life," he said plaintively, "that anyone ever came to see me without asking for something."

Well, no wonder the wealthy gentleman had a reputation for being a grouch. Maybe we should examine our approach to people we regard as grouches. Do we ever approach them except when we must—with a request, perhaps?

Grouchiness may be self-defense. At least it's something to think of the next time you are tempted to brand someone "a sourpuss."

Striking Coal Miners Lost Heavily

THE YEAR nearing an end has been a tough one for coal miners. Based on labor bureau statistics each of the 400,000 miners lost almost $400 during the 45-day strike last spring. With average individual weekly pay a little over $58, their total loss was something over $151,000,000. By fall each was earning about $61. The 17-day strike recently ended cost each more than $151, and all of them around $61,000,000. The two strikes cost the miner group more than $212,000,000.

With a gain of $3 per week, it would take 133 and a third weeks or more than two and a half years to make up the loss. The recent strike of 17 days which cost each miner about $151 makes the time no shorter.

The purpose of strikes is increased pay and improved working conditions. It becomes evident that miners' rights should be safeguarded by better techniques than strikes.

Milestones of Progress Appear In Civilization's Advancement

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — While I still think we are a long way from the goal of brotherhood, yet some definite milestones of progress should be noted at this Christmas season.

For instance, we've made progress in our relations with our greatest potential friend—or enemy—Russia. One year ago this Christmas, Jimmie Byrnes was in Moscow literally pleading with Stalin, and getting nowhere fast.

We've also made progress in pulling together the heterogeneou conflicting nationalities of the world into the United Nations.

And though intolerance is still rampant in the land, when you compare this post-war period with the race riots of East St. Louis and Washington after World War I, we've made progress there, too.

But probing deeper, going back further than one year or even two decades, it is important to realize just how much we have grasped of the vision given us by Jesus of Nazareth of what man could become. For if we had not been given, and taken—at least in part—the Christian belief and code of behavior, our Western civilization would bear little resemblance to what it is today.

The Dignity of Man.

The other day, Clarence Randall of the National Association of Manufacturers, an organization hitherto not famous for either tolerance or liberalism, made a statement which tone represents a great stride toard practical Christianity.

"The employer," he said, "must recognize that the dignity of the American workingman requires freedom of choice . . ."

Of course, ours not the only faith which speaks of the dignity of man, and we shouldn't get too monopolistic about it. The same idea is also at the heart of Judaism and prominent in Chinese philosophy, both of which preceded Christianity.

But, wherever found, it is belief in the dignity of man which, through labor disputes, wars, and revolutions, slowly civilizes the world.

Sometimes the progress has been imperceptible because its path lies through the hearts of men. And while we can measure dollars and cents, wheat and cotton, stocks and bonds, it is hard to measure the most important thing in the world—the change in men's hearts.

Yet, as we look back, this change has accomplished many things. It has forced out of our culture slavery, sweat ships, children-and-women as chattel property.

It was only a few scant years ago that the Supreme Court outlawed child labor, and that the famous Triangle fire in New York brought protection to the lives of working people—all steps forward toward the goal set for us by Jesus of Nazareth.

Hitler's Big Mistake.

Probably Hitler's greatest mistake was that he denied the dignity of man. Christ taught that man was the son of God—the fallen son and so capable of doing evil, but still the son of God. But Hitler assumed that man was no more than the brightest of the beasts, and treated him as such. Hitler operated on the premise that, as in the jungle, might makes right, and it's the function of the strong to use the weak in any fashion they see fit.

That was probably the biggest reason why the world turned against Hitler.

Today, as the Germans are returning to popularity, I sometimes wonder whether, in addition to their efficiency, they have learned the basic teaching of Christ—that they have a moral responsibility to their fellowmen to respect the dignity of their brothers.

And so, though Christianity has not yet forced all Fascism out of the world, it has recognized and attacked the evil—a very important beginning.

The "eye for an eye and tooth for a tooth" doctrine which Christ condemned still survives in many of us, but it is no longer sanctioned by law as in the old days. We still have a long way to go when it comes to "thou shalt not kill," but we have made some progress.

It is now an accepted practice not only to care for our own wounded in battle, but for the enemies' wounded as well. And while we still inflict the punishment of war on the aged and the children, at least now we have a conscience about it. No longer is it standard policy to enslave and torture a captured population.

2,000-Year Milestones.

It may seem slight solace to hold these things up as milestones of accomplishment along the 2,000-year struggle upward toward the Sermon On the Mount. But each of them was achieved after years of travail and turbulent pain. And they are important, especially in measuring the goals we must achieve in the future.

It is not a matter of mere chance that men who believed in Christ wrote and fought for the creed that all men "are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights." At the time they wrote that Declaration of Independence, men were held in human bondage. In the years that have passed since then, those former slaves gradually are attaining the vote. This democratic progress sprang direct from the teachings of Jesus Christ.

After the first World war, martial law was declared in bloody Mingo County, West Virginia. Less than ten years ago, workers were mowed down at the plant of Republic Steel in the Chicago massacre. We have come a long way since then, but if there is any place where we have more room for practical Christianity—on both sides—it is in bettering our labor relations.

Men like Charles P. McCormick of Baltimore, Eric Johnston, former president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, Stuart Symington when head of Emerson Electric, and one or two other enlightened employers have helped blaze the trail toward putting the Sermon On the Mount into their relations with labor. But the road ahead is long and the leaders few.

We have now reached what may be the crucial climax in our long road up the hill, when the forces of organized labor and organized capital if pitted against each other could shatter us at home, and when the weapons of war, if once again unleashed, would wipe out civilization everywhere.

So today our greatest need is that the spirit of Christ flame in every citizen.

No, Christ would not be crucified were he to come again. The danger is that we would turn to the comic page or go to the movies.

Yesterday the new toys:
Today the crash.
Yesterday the banquet,
Today the hash!

Casts a warm look.

Spectators Witness Odd Transformation.

WASHINGTON—Looking back over it now, one note scrawled on copy paper during the Bilbo hearings seems to take on a far more widespread meaning than it originally intended.

"Slowly, each day he shrivels," the note read. . . .

At the moment, I was recording merely my reaction toward the physical transformation of Mississippi's Senator Theodore G. Bilbo.

But before the hearings ended, that note described much more than the appearance of the shrunken old man who sometimes seemed to be withering before your very eyes.

It was impossible not to notice that transformation throughout the hearings. At the opening of the senate inquiry into his dealings with war contractors, there were time when he was the buoyant, colorful and belligerent Bilbo of old.

He walked firmly and briskly into the room. He sat erectly, eyes alertly searching the room, the faces of witnesses and the gestures of the investigating senators.

Often, he leaned over to instruct his lawyer on some point. Between hearings and during recesses, he attracted small crowds about him.

Gradually, but perceptibly, the change came. It showed in the tightening of lines about his puckered mouth, in the slack droop of his shoulders and the hesitancy of his pace as he walked through the crowd to his chair at the hearings.

As witness followed witness and testimony piled on testimony, the deterioration of his appearance became more complete. Often he sat with his head sunk so low on his chest that his tie was lost in the folds of coat and vest.

The slump seeped into his gestures. Where before Bilbo had laughed when Bilbo wished, there came a time when he guffawed only when the majority of the crowd howled, and sometimes he let them roar with only the faintest, most-forced of answering smiles.

Simultaneously, you could see the shriveling of influence, the ebbing of his erstwhile magnetic effect. Flanked by his personal flunkeys, Bilbo came and went, sometimes walking stony-eyed through the silent crowd, sometimes sneaking quick, bird-like peeks at the faces of those who stood and watched.

Often, in the crowded cafeteria, he sat and ate alone, even his handful of followers sitting at a nearby table while he slowly mouthed soft foods with his tender gums.

Then, even more, he seemed like a shriveled, bulbous-eyed old man, shrinking in some sort of gnome-like transformation under your very gaze.

Once there was a passive demonstration of the crushing pressure which seemed to compress Bilbo into smaller space each day.

Coming back to the caucus room after lunch one day, he found between him and the open door a motley crowd representing several minority racial and religious groups.

They neither spoke nor moved. Bilbo paused a moment, then started forward through them. The space they made to let him pass was barely big enough for even Bilbo. The ranks opened just in time to give him walking room, and then flowed shut behind him like heavy water.

Almost blindly, Bilbo kept moving . . . through the charged, increasing pressure which closed tightly around him . . . pressure built up by the forces of hatred and fear.

It was a short, silent walk, but a terrible one. And it showed its effect. When he reached the sanctuary of the door and stood between two big capitol cops, Bilbo looked smaller, older and more shriveled than ever before.

Housing Continues As Vexatious Problem.

WASHINGTON — Washington and members of congress suddenly are becoming aware of an acute housing problem.

This involves the program for temporary emergency housing for war veterans and their families, including those going to college under the GI act, which has been carried on co-operatively by the government and local communities, schools and colleges.

Lifting of price and wage controls has almost wrecked the program. Since the federal public housing authority, which directs this program under mandate by congress, has a limited appropriation for the federal part of the plan, it has been compelled to reduce sharply because of rising costs of materials and labor.

The program embraces temporary housing familiar in most cities and about most colleges—reconverted dormitories, rehabilitated barracks from army camps, Quonset huts, and miles of trailers. Some of this housing has been moved from here to there to meet the needs.

FPHA has been forced to revise its policy to concentrate on accommodations now nearest completion, with first call for those 85 per cent or more complete. It has ordered all scheduled projects suspended on which work has not yet been started.

All of this, naturally, has brought a wave of complaints here which, in turn, will require prompt attention by congress. The curback does not affect housing projects financed by local communities, which is a sizable part of the plan.

Either congress must make an emergency appropriation to complete the program, if it decides to go ahead with it, or local communities must finance their own in some way.

It has been suggested that a practicable means is for congress to make grants to local communities, where it deems projects essential and the community can not finance them rather than to the FPHA, which has so many other things to do.

The veterans' emergency housing program was authorized in December, 1945, before the general housing program, with an appropriation of $191,900,000. It was found necessary to do something immediately because of the increasing numbers of discharged soldiers who needed a place to live, including those going to college.

Congress made another appropriation of $253 million in April, 1946, a total of approximately $445 million. The job was assigned to FPHA and came under the general authority of Wilson Wyatt, recently resigned as housing expediter.

The program has suffered repeated setbacks. Originally it was to provide temporary housing for 200,000 veterans and their families from the federal appropriation. By July, this year, all that could be provided on the basis of original cost estimates had been allocated. But the price of building materials and labor continued upward. Early this fall the program was scaled down to around 182,000 accommodations.

It started originally on a 90-day basis for each project. This has stretched out to about seven months. The last report as of Dec. 17 shows 80,415 accommodations federally financed were completed, and 101,519 still under construction. Of non-federally-financed projects, 34,494 were completed, and 27,221 still under construction. These last are not affected by cutback orders.

Shortages of materials and labor have been detrimental. Just now most acute shortages are in space-heaters, cookstoves and copper wire to connect installations.

Contracts are on a cost-plus basis, and contractors selected were those who had performed similar large-scale operations in the war and were equipped for the job, though local contracts were permitted where the job could be done more economically than by FPHA

Moderation In Labor Restraint Sought.

WASHINGTON—Under the efficient generalship of Senator Robert A. Taft, the strategy of the GOP majority on labor legislation is taking shape. It is a shrewd tactic, characteristic of Taft, who likes to lay his plans carefully well in advance of events.

Taft and the little group helping him to frame strategy for the coming session recognize that almost every member of congress has his own patented provision to end labor strife.

These provisions range from an extreme that would all but abolish labor unions down to mild proposals for correcting the imbalance of the Wagner Labor Relations Act.

But when all these proposals are dumped into the legislative hopper, the machinery of congress will almost certainly be slowed to a standstill. Hearings and more hearings will go on indefinitely. The result, so far as legislation is concerned, may well be zero.

Realizing this, Taft and his fellow planners intend to push for quick passage of the Case Bill. The congress now expiring passed it with a large majority that included the votes of both Republicans and Democrats. It was vetoed by President Truman.

The bill, which puts drastic restrictions on the right to strike and on the activities of trade unions, will be re-introduced with only minor modifications. As Taft points out, extended hearings have already been held on this measure. Union leaders have been heard in violent opposition to the bill and further hearings could add nothing new.

Taft is confident that the revised Case Bill will be passed early in the session by an even larger majority than it received originally. If the president should veto it, which is considered unlikely, then it will be passed over his veto.

Once the Case Bill is out of the way, it will not matter so much if the labor hearings go on indefinitely. Every proposal, regardless of how extreme or crackpot, can be given an airing. The Republicans will feel that in passing the Case Bill they have carried out the mandate of the November 5 election.

It is quite possible that this will be the only piece of labor legislation passed during the coming session. The objective of Joseph W. Martin, jr., and the other leaders is to get congress out of Washington by July 1 at the latest.

The time may be too short to get agreement on some of the highly controversial measures that will be considered. There is considerable pressure, for example, behind a move to outlaw industry-wide collective bargaining. Others would outlaw the closed shop.

Such sweeping proposals are bound to stir the most intense feelings. They would change the whole pattern of industrial life as it has been evolving in recent years.

What is more, they open the way to government control not of labor alone, but of all industry. That is the other side of the curb-labor crusade which disturbs more thoughtful members of the new majority.

Anything like compulsory arbitration is just as unpalatable to the leaders of industry as it is to leaders of labor.

The problem, therefore, is to keep the bargaining process free and at the same time to take away from the unions the power the new majority regards as excessive. That will not be easy.

President Truman is now putting into form his own prescription for resolving the labor vs. industry dilemma. It will be incorporated in his message on the State of the Union to be delivered shortly after congress convenes.

There will be an academic—and a political—interest in what the president has to say. The signals on labor legislation will be called, however, not from the White House, but on Capitol Hill, where Taft and his strategy committee are completing their plans.

Farmer's Diary: "Man With a Plan."

A STRANGER, with his wife, was waiting at my home to see me last evening. A taxicab stood on our barn bridge, with the meter running. He was a young man, active, ruddy, keen-eyed—somewhat nervous and overloaded with something that would not fall into easy wording.

"I'm not much of a salesman," he began, "but I want to get your slant on an idea of mine. It's how we might give a break to these 'juvenile delinquent' boys, and keep 'em from making a criminal record. You know what I mean—boys from 14 to 18, say, who are heading straight for reform schools and prisons.

"They need first to learn how to live and how to make a living. Then they need financial ballast—some good hard dollars that they've earned themselves, to invest in their own future.

"Why couldn't our city raise a fund to buy a farm, and have boys paroled there, under guardianship of a corps of good men—not state supervision—not sectarian, not political—more like a co-operative with each paroled boy given the chance to earn money and pay off a certificate of indebtedness, from his share of the profits. The produce of the farm would be sold in the open market.

"My idea would be to have a board of directors composed of a Scout official, a doctor, a doctor of divinity—or perhaps two of those, two recognized successful modern farmers, and two successful business men . . . as little red tape as possible."

"But where do you come in? What would you get out of it?" inquired my wife, penetratingly.

"What would I get out of it? I'm glad you asked that," he said earnestly. "I've had some trouble, myself. My ex-wife and I . . . As I said, I'm a trained engineer—now I'm doing plumbing and pipe fitting. But I've got a prison record. I was in there 18 months. I got to know some fellows there who never ought to have gone to a place like that—bright minded, decent fellows who had never had a break. Mostly the right kind of a lift, at the right time, would have kept them good citizens. I don't want any money out of this idea of mine. My wife and I both work, and we're getting along swell, but I don't like to think that part of my life was just thrown away . . . I'd like to start a succesful boys' farm and see the idea spread all over the state and nation."

What do you think of this young man's Christmas suggestion? It is positive. Is it feasible, and does it interest you? Please write in your candid opinion to me—the address is Calvin A. Byers, Bellville, Ohio.

Veterans' Families Celebrate First Christmas In Vetsville

By MARGARET WALTER

Yesterday in a gay holiday atmosphere of tinseled trees glittering with lights, multi-colored ornaments and candy canes, with a background of laughing children's voices, 50 veterans and their families celebrated their first Christmas in Vetsville.

For all the families in the housing unit sponsored by the McVey post No. 16 of the American Legion it was a merry Christmas with fathers and husbands home from the wars, for most families, it was the first Christmas spent in a home of their own.

"It's just wonderful to be here" said Mrs. William Warden who with her husband, a veteran of the army, and their two children, Billy, age 3, and Mary Beth, age two, moved in to Vetsville two months ago. "We had a two room apartment while my husband was in the service, but that's not much of a home."

"We'll probably spend part of Christmas day with our families, Mr. and Mrs. Urban W. Welsh and Mr. and Mrs. Russell Warden here. All my brothers are home from the army and Christmas dinner will be quite a reunion."

"We love it here," she said, "even though when we moved in we didn't have a heater. Until our fuel-oil stove came we used the oven and a laundry stove we borrowed from the neighbors. But now," she looked around the warm, gaily decorated room where Billy and Mary Beth were industriously polishing the floor in comic imitation of "mother," "we're very comfortable. We're glad to be here."

* * *

"It's our first Christmas together and with our family since we were married," said Mrs. John Kirschenheiter. "Last year I was home with my parents in North Dakota, while he was in service."

"We've been here a little over a month and we like it out here. It's just wonderful, isn't it Jean Ann?" 16 month old Jean Ann wriggled in her mother's lap and with beaming smile and shining eyes reached a chubby hand out toward a glittering silverball on the Christmas tree.

Johnny, the Kirschenheiter's four year old son, was outside playing. "We just can't keep him in, there are so many children to play with."

"It will be a wonderful Christmas for us," she said "we're here, and my husband's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Kirschenheiter, are coming here from North Dakota."

* * *

"Even this year, the family won't be complete," said Mrs. George W. Bowers. "Jerry won't be here." Eight-year-old Jerry, the Bower's eldest, is quarantined in Columbus with Chicken Pox.

"But," said Mrs. Bowers, "it's grand to be in a place of our own. In service during the war we rented furnished rooms. We've been in here about two and a half months and love it."

Virginia, age four and David, age three, came running in from playing; the rosy-cheeked children peeled off mufflers, mittens, leggings, and heavy coats.

"Stand here by the Christmas tree," Mrs. Bowers said, "the way you did when Mommy took your picture for Daddy when he was in the Marines. We'll send one to Jerry so he'll know what our Christmas tree looks like."

Out side, children dragged sleds and wagons over the ice with Jarman hostess.

A chicken supper and Christmas gift exchange was held when the membership committee, Women of the Moose met at the home of Mrs. V. C. Hageman, Harker street. Twelve members and the senior regent, Mrs. Fred Lewis were present. Next meeting will be Jan. 29 at the Moose home

Broadway

By Dorothy Kilgallen

Miss Midnight's Notebook — Gotham Scenery: Joan Crawford, surrounded by breathless fans, sipping a chocolate soda in her favorite New York drinking place —Hicks' sweet shoppe. . . . Among the autograph seekers waiting outside the Alvin theatre for Ingrid Bergman—two red-garbed, bearded Santas! . . . Contrasting literati at "21"—Ernest Hemingway and Kathleen ("Forever Amber") Winsor . . . Eugene O'Neill, traditionally somber, chuckling like a happy Elk at Ethel Merman's "Annie" clowning . . . The Duke of Windsor, on Park Avenue (well, where else?), with his hat brim turned down all the way 'round . . . Carole Landis, a dreamboat in a white velvet dress, looking like a grownup boy's notion of a white Christmas as she glides into Toots Shor's. . . . Rise Stevens and her two-year-old tot gabbing with the Macy Santa Claus. . . . Hildegarde keeping the Radio City breezes off her shoulders with an ERMINE sweater.

* * *

All Around The Town: An academy football hero is smitten with Sherry Britten, which is why you see him at Leon & Eddie's much more often than at any of the other night spots-before-your-eyes. . . . Want a short sharp shock? Author Lewis, who apparently loves a good fight, is planning to come out with "conclusive proof" that Thomas Jefferson did not write the Declaration of Independence. . . . Troubador Burl Ives is the latest performer to find himself in the middle of a managerial squabble. A lad who claims to have discovered him is suing for $25,000. . . . Although she really stole the show from all of them, top-flight glamour girls weren't a bit put out at the excitement caused by Sister Kenny at Earl Blackwell's 'Celebrity' cocktail party. Such belles as Paulette Goddard, Pat Smart, Marlene Dietrich and June Havoc stood in line, shiny-eyed and respectful to meet her and shake her hand.

* * *

A STONE'S THROW FROM Broadway: Major Ernest Simpson has just arrived in New York from London, so the reeking-with-glamour Colony now shelters under its perfumed roof the four principals in this generation's greatest love story — the Duke and Duchess of Windsor, whom Wallis divorced for the Duke, and Lady Furness who was the Duke's favorite dancing partner until she introduced him to the then Mrs. Simpson. . . . Doris Duke apparently has become a confirmed lover of jive. Spent five nights last week in the House of Dixon listening to Joe Mooney Quartet. . . . Damsels entering Gilmore's these pre-holiday evenings do so at their own risk. Lynne Gilmore really has something for the boys—sprigs of the twigs traditionally accepted as an invitation to osculation have been provocatively placed over each banquette along the wall, and that section of the steak house has been officially, if temporarily, christened "Mistletoe Row."

* * *

The Grapevine: Margaret Truman is learning to hit high E, according to singer Jean Tennyson. Their rhearsal halls are opposite each other, and she eavesdrops. . . . Great Britain's answer to duper ladies' man on screen and Errol Flynn is the recently arrived Rowland Culver, a super-off. He'll be starring in a Broadway play before migrating to Errol's own happy hunting grounds.

* * *

Faces In Places: Helen Hayes, tiny and chic in black silk, having a quiet dinner in Sardi's before her riotous performance in "Happy Birthday" . . . Serge Oblensky, one of the town's best dancers, happily samba-ing to the town's best dance music—Ted Straeter's at the Bowman Room. . . . Lucious Jane Russell fending off the bold stares and low meaningful whistles at Ruby Foo's Den.

HOME BUYERS' FUTURE BLEAK, SAYS ABRAMS

Vets Will Face Foreclosure Wave, States Consultant.

NEW YORK —(INS)— National Housing Authority Consultant Charles Abrams has predicted that "on the first dip of the business curve, veterans will be churned under in an unprecedented wave of home foreclosures."

Abrams, consultant to the federal government throughout the war and post-war housing crisis, sketched a bleak picture for the home-owning veteran.

He said:

"On the first decline of wage levels—or if veterans lose their jobs even temporarily—they will also lose their homes.

"There is no mechanism set up to tide the veteran over temporary distress and the picture looks pretty much as it did in the '30s when a thousand families a day lost their homes."

The present inflation, Abrams contended, is "worse than in the '20s. Costs are considerably higher, and inflated costs have forced a reduction in building standards to meet the demand for homes."

Abrams said that in New York alone, a survey shows that only four per cent of home-saddled veterans can afford to pay the $80 a month, $10,000 ceiling fixed by President Truman.

He added:

"Monthly payments under these inflated costs are fixed. Veterans have not only put up their savings for a down payment. They've exhausted their reserve for furniture and upkeep."

Many veterans, the housing authority said, are paying 30 or 35 per cent of their incomes for homes—10 to 15 per cent more than they should pay.

Abrams put the blame squarely on the government because of its subsidy program for private contractors. The government, he said, has piled emergency on emergency instead of recognizing the housing situation as a long range problem. He added:

"We have flitted from one emergency to another, hopeful that each crisis would subside and the housing dilemma would resolve itself on a line of eternal happiness."

The first emergency, Abrams contended, started back in 1933 with unemployment. Then came the defense emergency in 1940, the war emergency in 1941, and the veterans housing emergency, 1946.

The result, he said, is that each crisis is more intense than its predecessor. He added:

"You can be pretty sure the next emergency will be foreclosure when thousands of families upon whom ownership is being forced see their homes on the auction block."

2 Soldiers Break Black Market Ring

TOKYO— (INS) —A Tokyo black market ring was broken up when six Japanese were arrested by U. S. counter-intelligence agents to climax investigations by two soldiers attached to the 71st Quartermaster base depot.

Col. J. R. W. Herwig, commander of the depot, said large quantities of silk, watches, cigarets and oil were recovered while the gang was hijacking a house and a warehouse stocked with stolen American and Japanese goods. The soldiers reported to their security officer that they had been approached by Japanese who promised them big money to work with the gang.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN
Of Tired Kidneys
If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.
The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.
If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.
Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

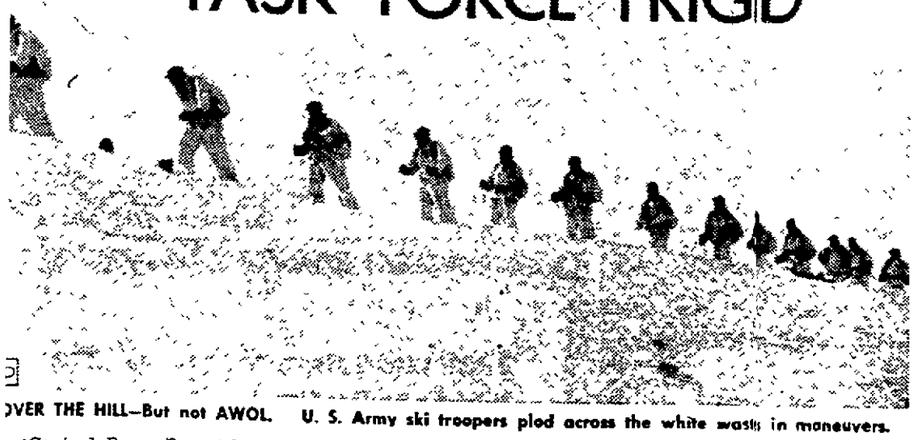
TASK FORCE FRIGID



OVER THE HILL—But not AWOL. U. S. Army ski troopers plod across the white wastes in maneuvers.

(Central Press Dispatch)

FAIRBANKS, Alaska—Can merican fighting men stand motionless for two hours when the ermometer hovers around zero? lie still an hour?

Can he run rapidly at minus 30 grees, and what happens to his ily functions? At minus 40, n he march longer than eight urs, and how long can he ride an open vehicle? If the wind blowing 10 miles an hour and e temperature's 40 below, will face freeze?

During the winter, now closing this northland, Yank soldiers ll find the answers. They are ing to undertake what the army lls "Task Force Frigid." The me fits like a tight glove.

Man and machine alike will be omitted to sub-zero tempera-es during field conditions that ll reveal, in part at least, how ll prepared the army is to ht in snow and ice.

* * *

THERE IS AT LEAST ONE OF ery type weapon and vehicle at might be needed in such an eration. You would find heeled radar, four kinds of me-ium tanks, many self-propelled otors and guns, flame throwers, obile kitchens and snowmobiles ot to mention a batch of jeeps d weasels.

Heading the expedition, which aintains headquarters at Ladd eld, is battle-tough Col. Paul A. eichle. Already Col. Reichle has irted his toughening exercises. many as 118 officers and 1,500 en accompany him on conditioning hikes. Each officer and man ars a 50-pound pack. Reichle es not ask enlisted men to try ything his officers—or himself don't duplicate.

Task Force Frigid started training at Ft. Ord, California, last mmer. It reached Alaska via ip and by highway. Originally tended to be a volunteer organiation, many specialists were und to have been separated om the service. It became necsary to assign experts to their bs.

Three men in four saw service battle. In Frigid you would id:

Some 200 paratroopers of famed ompany E, 505th Airborne, who ear 100 Purple Hearts and hold o Presidential Unit citations r their combat action between cily and the Bulge.

Company B, 66th Tank Battalion, of the "Hell on Wheels" econd Armored division.

And—wearing scores of different regimental patches—battle-easoned artillerymen, medics, signal corpsmen, truck drivers, rarmen, ack-ack men.

They look tough — they act ugh—they are tough.

What do they hope to learn? In ief how to fight and survive Arctic conditions.

* * *

ALREADY THEY HAVE arned something mightily imortant. The usual field pack ings to the back, causes perspiation to run. Modifications will sult. This is important, too, beuse freezing perspiration is as enacing as any other ice.

GI PAJAMAS—A soldier models new-type front ine sleeping suit.

Ashland to Hear Head of Legion

ASHLAND—Paul H. Griffith, national commander of the American Legion, will visit the Harry Higgins post of the Legion on Monday, March 17, as the first national commander ever to visit the local post.

Griffith will speak at the McDowell auditorium to Legionnaires and the general public. A mass initiation for new Legion members from here and nearby cities in the fifth district will precede the address.

Broader gauge, these troopers will learn whether Alaska is easily defensible, how many men and what kind of equipment is needed to protect this potential 50th state of the Union. Col. Reichle believes his outfit can cross areas once thought impossible of crossing.

Frigid is not alone in studies of freezing conditions. Task Force Williwaw is testing men and equipment in the wet winds of the Aleutians. Task Force Frost is studying unpredictable, chancing wintry weather in northern Wisconsin.

Taken together, their experiences will point the way toward development of new machines and techniques for meeting the fighting needs of the dread spaces of the Arctic.

The European world obtained the word China from the then ruling dynasty known as Ch'in.

Try and Stop Me

—by Bennett Cerf

Mme Schumann Heink was the soloist at a Chicago concert one afternoon, and had to make her entrance via a narrow aisle between the violin and cellos.

She found the going very difficult, and one musician, endeavoring to be helpful, suggested, "Why don't you try going sideways?"

The portly diva gave him a despairing look and snorted, "Mein Gott! Don't you see I haff no sideways?"

* * *

There was a bit of high drama last year in the most unexpected of places, the annual meeting of a big Wall Street bank. The pompous chairman introduced a speaker with whom he was obviously unfamiliar as "one of the distinguished vice presidents of our institution."

The gentleman in question flushed with anger and began his address by assuring the assemblage, "I resent being called a vice-president of the institution. I am the fourth assistant cashier."

STEALS PLANE

OKANOGAN, Wash. —(AP)— A preacher, Charles Thackwell, 33, was held today on grand larceny charges after admitting, Sheriff Lester H. Moss said, he stole an airplane in Tacoma Nov. 17 because he was in a hurry to get to Spokane to preach a sermon.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, December 27

A sharp and long-range about-face in the affairs, should spur the energies and faculties to a pitch where much may be accomplished in smashing old, useless and disintegrating conditions, by new slants on exceptional prospects. A keen evaluation of established elements, reorganization of methods, tactics and more astute grasp of future probabilities is needed. While taking chances and making drastic moves, it would be well to shun extravagance, in funds, ideas and emotions, with a purpose to solidify rather than "plunge." Constructive efforts win against sheer gambles or wild "yens."

Those whose birthday it is may be grasped in a whirl of sudden events, spurring into action and keen initiative, lagging, static, or wornout situations technique or plans, in favor of direct, even drastic action, wherein practical and tried-out formulae win against old undermining and disruptive procedures. Originality, scientific adaptations and audacity should be held to safe and sane lines, with no squandering of forces, faculties, funds or other workable resources, imperiled by extravagances, excesses, impulses or sheer excitement of the gambling instinct. Personal life is also to be considered under such erratic impulses or urges.

A child born on this day may have exceptional talents, originality or ingenuity, but may lose out by prodigality or impulse to take the long chance.

Quinine was used centuries ago by South American Indians.

SOUNDS IN THE NIGHT: At Reuben's: "After all, if it weren't for our parents most of us wouldn't be here!" . . . At the Embassy: "Look at him sitting there all by his loathsome" . . . At Alfredo's: "They're a typical Hollywood marriage; never seen together except on a screen" . . . At the Boulevard: "He's not doing any more books; musta lost his paste" . . . At Greenwich Village Inn: "Runyon wrote about lovable characters. Of course, they didn't become lovable until he wrote about 'em" . . . At Howie's: "Looks like the people found out the old adage is true: Harry in haste, repent at leisure."

THE LATE WATCH: Newest big spender about midtown is a Puerto Rican named Nino. Leaves a trail of big tips (a mile wide) nightly . . . Ann Sheridan now sleeps on a special glass mattress! Fireproof and no allergy, or somethin' . . . Lucille Ball spurned her new Buick because its bright red clashed with her orange hair . . . Didjez know that regular burglary insurance policies will not insure against loss by theft by a kin living with the insured? . . . Sardi's hat-check gal, Renee Carroll, just leased a swank Central Park South apartment . . . If yez want an elephant instead of a new car, the price is now $7,000 . . . Newest whim of the gels who dunno what to do with their money: A lipstick brush made of genuine sable hair with 14-karat gold handle.

ONE OF THE CRITICS of private groups (getting information on subversives) made a career of doing just that. He won a Pulitzer Prize for digging up data on gangsters who went to prison . . . It's called "public service" . . . William Dudley Pelley, frixample, is one of our original targets and is doing 15 years for sedition . . . Then there was Fritz Kuhn (deported to Germany). George Sylvester Viereck (still in the hoosegow for propaganda work against the U. S.) and several others. . . . Newspapers proudly point to their efforts (at risk of reporters' lives) in the name of Law and Order . . . Columnists often reveal skullduggery in print (and get action from police) exposing graft to plots against the nation . . . Too often, unfortunately, if it weren't for aggressive newspapers—crime would go unpunished.

INCIDENTALLY, the propaganda of alleged seditionists proves they are aiming to Nazify America. But most of them are free to carry on their activities. Will our Justice Rep't wait until the first shot is fired before Tom Clark wakes up? . . . The duty of law and order forces is not only to prosecute crimes but also to prevent them!

THERE are some frightened editors who hop on the nearest table at the threat of a libel suit. But legal battles and even physical violence never prevented James Gordon Bennett from publishing the facts. Bennett once informed his reporters: "The fear of libel has curtailed the freedom of many journalists. I only ask you to print all the facts. The truth is sometimes ugly, but there is nothing uglier than allowing your fears to suppress it."

Pegler — Fair Enough

NEW YORK—The new growth of secret police societies, gestapos, if you will, seems to me to be appropriate to the dark politics and the old fears of continental Europe. We have had our Molly McGuires and our Klans, which rise and fall, but no phenomenon like the current crop of secret agencies which keep libraries of "reference" material on unsuspecting native citizens and use it or hold it in reserve for political blackmail. Some of our prohibition groups enjoyed close relations with some government departments and bullied congress, but they, too, at least were native, and the issue was strictly domestic.

In the present situation, Americans are catalogued as "fascists," a general term, if they dare to argue sincerely against immigration or express certain opinions on our foreign policy. Roughly speaking, all who opposed President Roosevelt became "fascists" because Roosevelt said he was anti-Fascist even while he introduced Fascist measures into this country. Now we hear "nationalists" condemned as "Fascists", although George Washington was an uncompromising nationalist and Lincoln reveals no dilution of his American loyalty with an obligation to any foreign power or element.

* * *

EUROPEAN COUNTRIES had their secret police, but we never have had such an institution. It is misleading to say that the FBI is a secret police force in a comparable sense. The FBI does maintain a directory of criminals, a great convenience and legitimate, which, in the hands of efficient men, makes it possible to catch criminals in new offenses. The treasury has several confidential agencies which have access to bank accounts. The FBI insists, however, that it keeps no dossiers on innocent persons and both the FBI and the treasury appear to guard their material confidentially for legitimate uses of the government. And, finally, these are official government activities.

In unofficial life we have confidential agencies which investigate applicants for insurance to determine whether they are reasonable moral risks, but keep their data to themselves. Otherwise the companies would find themselves writing fire insurance for men who have burned themselves out before, or played bankruptcy as a racket. And the credit agencies investigate and make reports on applicants for credit always marked "strictly confidential" to the client so that the client may know the business condition of the applicant. If the applicant is a dead-beat the credit agency states the facts and the client guides himself accordingly. In most cases, the agency goes directly to the person or firm concerned and the information is given willingly.

But personal espionage for political purposes is something new to us.

Lippmann — Today and Tomorrow

A MODEST little pamphlet issued in Washington last week explains the beginning of something which will be watched with profound interest and much anxiety here and throughout the world. The pamphlet is the first annual report made to the president by the Council of Economic Advisers, created last winter by the employment act of 1946.

That act, one of the most significant enacted by Congress in this century, commits the government to finding a policy of conscious and deliberate measures to keep our economic system working at a high level of production, employment and private income. The report, which is the work of Messrs. Nourse, Keyserling and Clark, explains the machinery of the act and its philosophy, and concludes with a brief summary of the outlook for the immediate and the more distant future.

The style of the report is persuasive, meant to reassure Congress and the American community that the new and highly experimental commitment is in the hands of friendly and prudent men. It might be said that they seek to prove that a great national reform, which originated among the unorthodox, can be assimilated by the orthodox.

* * *

THE SITUATION is favorable to this approach. We are actually in a period of great production and high employment, and there is every economic reason to expect that prosperity will continue, without serious interruption, for some time to come. Therefore, the Council of Economic Advisers does not begin its work in an atmosphere of crisis, of mass unemployment and misery, of bankruptcies and panic; it is not called upon to improvise emergency measures and rescue operations. The national economy as a whole, despite its local and marginal problems, is a going concern, and the Council's task is to recommend measures which will keep it a going concern.

The earlier the warning signs of trouble can be detected and recommendations agreed to which will avert the trouble, the less drastic will the measures have to be. A stitch in time saves nine. The report dwells at length on how undesirable it is to deal with booms and busts and trusts simply by sucking or pumping great quantities of money out of/or into the national economy. But the fact is that if corrective measures are not taken soon enough, if the forces of inflation or deflation are allowed to run wild and become cumulative, drastic and wholesale measures will be resorted to. For no democratic nation in this century will passively accept the cycle of boom and bust as the product of a blind fate.

* * *

THE DRASTIC wholesale measures, which have so many evil political and moral effects, cannot be averted by the arguments of those who disbelieve in them. They can be averted only by continual preventive action taken before the trouble becomes so serious that it must be remedied, however unpleasant the remedy. This is, I take it, the view of the Council of Economic Advisers, attested by its warning—which is much the most important single statement in its report—that "the very industries which feature the prosperity of the moment could, if nothing is done, be expected to drop to a replacement basis after a few years. This might spell deep depression for some later time—but only if we fail to make the gradual shift in expenditures and resource use that wise foreseeing and astute planning for this inevitable trend of development suggested to a sagacious people."

It would be difficult to overstate how much depends upon our ability to deal with "this inevitable trend of development"—that is to say with the use of our resources and plant and with the investment of the capital that will have accumulated when the postwar demand for houses, automobiles, and other goods, has been satisfied.

TWO INJURED IN ACCIDENTS OVER HOLIDAY

City, County Escape Major Traffic Mishaps.

Mansfield and Richland county escaped serious traffic accidents over the Christmas holiday although two persons were reported injured.

Edward E. Haines, 24, of Kent, suffered lacerations of the back when his car went off the pavement on the Bowman street road, highway patrolmen reported.

Haines was treated at General hospital and released.

Lawrence Bertke, 60, of Shelby, R. D. 2, was reported in good condition in Shelby Memorial hospital where he was treated for lacerations about the face and head following an accident at Gamble and Main streets in Shelby.

Shelby police reported that Bertke walked into the side of a car driven by Norman Stroup, Shelby, R. D. 2.

State highway patrolmen reported two accidents in the county yesterday in which the damage was reported as minor and no injuries resulted.

FRENCH CLAIM GAINS AGAINST INDO-CHINESE

PARIS —(U.P.)— The French high command in Saigon announced today that its troops held the native quarter of Hanoi in a ring of steel.

Elsewhere in Indo-China French troops were either attacking on all points or holding their positions, the high command said in a communique setting forth the military situation as of early today.

The cabinet discussed the Indo-Chinese situation this morning and an official announcement said government policies remained the same as those outlined by Premier Leon Blum before the assembly Monday. At that time he indicated France plans to restore order to Indo-China while at the same time holding out to the Viet Nam a peace offer on French terms.

Viet Nam insurgent forces attempted infiltration movements toward Gia Liam airport but they were "easily repulsed," the communique said.

It reported satisfactory progress in French operations aimed at shattering the intermittent Viet Nam artillery offensive directed at Hanoi from outside of the city.

* * *

Column Meets Resistance.

A French column pushing north of Bac Ninh ran into severe resistance when its assault on an old Chinese fort was hampered by a vigorous rearguard action of Viet Nam forces.

A French relief column pushing from Hapong toward Hano was reported to have reached Laikne. Nan Dinh was reported quiet after a furious Viet Nam attack carried out by Annamite Republican forces. The attack was repulsed with heavy losses, the communique said.

An earlier communique said that the French were meeting strong resistance in their assault on Hanoi's native quarter.

Yule Basket Still Awaits 65th Family

All but one of the 65 families remembered by the Volunteers of America with a Christmas basket yesterday, had a fine holiday dinner.

Adj. R. L. Gutterman, director of the Volunteers, said today that a two-day search had failed to locate the sixty-fifth family who recently moved from Miller street. He added, however, that if the family make its whereabouts known the Christmas basket is still waiting to be delivered.

Gutterman said that the baskets, containing 100 cases of canned food, 80 pounds of candy, 400 bananas, 400 oranges, calla hams, a peck of potatoes each and several other items, were distributed Christmas Eve and Christmas day.

Rounding out the Yule activities, the Volunteers gave out a record 1,345 repaired toys, donated by Mansfielders.

900 GUESTS FLEE AS HOTEL BURNS

MONTICELLO, N. Y. — (U.P.) — Nine hundred guests were routed from their sleep early today when fire of undetermined origin swept the Concord hotel's Cobana playhouse. Police said no one was injured.

The blaze which started shortly after 4 a. m., spread rapidly through the Cobana which housed the hotel's theater, night club, and bar.

Firemen from Monticello and nearby Fallsburg and Hurleyville brought the blaze under control within two hours and kept it from spreading to the hotel proper.

DINE ON VENISON

Venison steak will be the chief item on the menu at a dinner of the Senior Explorer Scouts, Troop 3 of Shelby, at 6 p. m. today in the Methodist church, Shelby.

2 Ohioans Die In Plane Crash

ELLSWORTH, Wis. — (AP) — Charles Ackerman, 29, and the Rev. Paul Gullitt, both of Mt. Vernon, O., were killed yesterday when their trainer plane crashed on a farm near here.

Ackerman, pilot of the plane, had gone to Minneapolis to bring the Rev. Gullitt, his brother-in-law, to Mt. Vernon where they had planned to spend the Christmas holiday with their families. The Rev. Gullitt was identified through a drivers license found near the wreckage.

SPENDS HOLIDAYS HERE—Blond, blue-eyed Marlisie Fritschi, 26, of Zurich, Switzerland, chose the home of Ralph K. Oswalt, in Weller township, as a typical Ohio farm family, and is spending her Christmas vacation there. Miss Fritschi is a home management student at Ohio State university, and though many thousands of miles away from home, she doesn't seem the least bit downcast about spending the holiday away from her family. Here she's wondering what her gift package may contain. (News-Journal photo)

Visitor From Switzerland Finds Christmas On Richland Farm an Enjoyable Experience

By ART ANDERSON

Christmas took on an international air at the Ralph K. Oswalt farm home in Weller township.

Visiting at the home during the Christmas season was blonde, blue-eyed, 26-year-old, Marlisie Fritschi, Ohio State university student from Zurich, Switzerland.

* * *

MISS FRITSCHI SPENT Christmas with the Oswalts because of a desire to visit with a typical Ohio farm family. Arrangements for her visit to the Weller township farm were made by Miss Minnie Price, state director of home demonstration work, through Miss Mabel Spray, Richland county home demonstration agent.

The Master of Science graduate in agriculture engineering from the Swiss Federal School of Technology found Christmas in Richland county not a great deal different from the holiday in her native land.

Two things she noticed as different. One was caroling and the other was that Christmas decorations, including the tree, were up in many homes before Christmas eve. This annual, delightful task is always done on Christmas eve in Switzerland, she said.

She went caroling for the first time with approximately 15 members of the Franklin Methodist Youth Fellowship and the Franklin Methodist church choir. The group visited the County home and shut-ins in the vicinity to sing carols and bestow gifts of fruit, nuts and candy.

* * *

"I HEARD THE SONGS SUNG so many times that I believe I can sing them without any assistance," she said.

Concerning her return to Switzerland, Miss Fritschi said she has no desire to Americanize Switzerland farm homes.

"I just want to adapt some of the ideas I'm getting over here, upon my return," she said.

She likes the camps which the extension service conducts for rural women each summer.

Nearly all of the farm homes in Switzerland have electricity and many of them have running water, heated by wood burning stoves, Miss Fritschi said.

* * *

WOOD IS PLENTIFUL AND the plan is to improve the wood heaters rather than replace them. Wood is also used to generate gas and operate farm tractors.

Miss Fritschi is attending the university under a sponsorship of the OSU Home Economics club and the National Home Economics association through arrangements with the Institute of International Education.

Miss Fritschi is studying home management at Ohio State. She will return to Switzerland to do extension work.

BARTENDER DIES OF KNIFE WOUNDS

Police today were holding four men for questioning in connection with the knife-killing of Richard Jones, a bartender at the Demo club, 305 North Main street.

Police said Jones was stabbed during an argument at the club around 2:45 a. m. yesterday. He died of wounds in the base of the neck while en route to a hospital.

Officers said they have not yet determined what the argument was about. The four men are booked on investigation charges.

Dr. D. C. Lavender, Richland county coroner, issued a verdict of homicide in the killing and said death came as the result of the neck wounds.

Police today were still attempting to locate Jones' relatives. He lived at the Morton hotel, and is believed to have a grandmother living in New Orleans, La.

Police Pre-Holiday Auction Adds $165 to Pension Fund

The police department's recovered property room is virtually empty today and the department's pension fund is $165 richer.

A Christmas eve auction of recovered, unclaimed property attracted some 60 buyers. "Auctioneer" Detective F. Bruce Friday said he had no trouble in making sales.

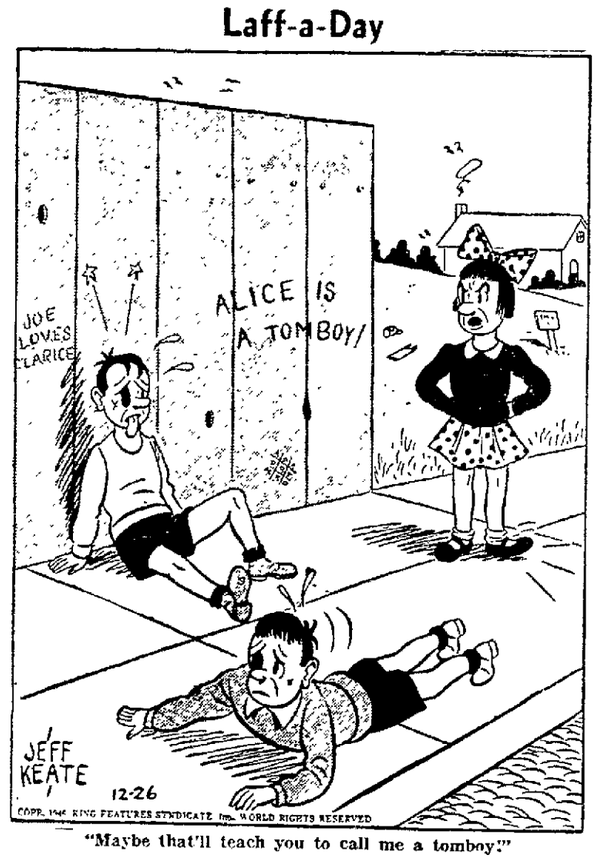
Twelve bicycles brought from $2 to $16, with most of them going for around $7, Friday said. A kiddie car sold for $4.

Unclaimed tires and rims, suitcases, a shotgun, two junk typewriters and other auto equipment made up the balance of the auctioned material. The articles had accumulated since 1943 when police held their last public sale.

Friday said most buyers were adults but added that there were some youngsters in the crowd who also bid on the bicycles.

Police still have some unclaimed property, including several bicycles, which was recovered this year. Property must be held for a year before it goes on sale.

Laff-a-Day



"Maybe that'll teach you to call me a tomboy!"

2 DEFENDANTS DECLARED SANE

John C. Laughlin, 30, of 363 South Main street, and Richard N. Thomas, 41, of Loudon, Tenn., were in county jail today awaiting sentence on respective charges of rape with consent and forgery.

Both men were returned from the Lima state hospital where they had been committed by Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch for a 30-day observation period. They were reported sane by institution officials.

Laughlin had pleaded guilty Nov. 20 to a charge of rape with consent of a 13-year-old girl last August and Thomas on the same date entered a plea of guilty to a charge of forgery.

BLAST FIZZLES

MOVE LEAVES OHIO BACKING OPEN TO TAFT

Disclosure Eases Confusion Surrounding State's Two 'Favorite Sons.'

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Sen. Robert A. Taft, a power among Republicans for almost a decade, will be Ohio's choice for the GOP presidential nomination in 1948, the United Press learned today.

It was learned reliably that Sen.-elect John W. Bricker (R., O.) will remove his name from the list of Republican presidential possibilities to insure united Ohio support for the 57-year-old Taft at the 1948 GOP convention.

The solid support of the Ohio delegation would put Taft among the foremost contenders for the honor of leading the Republican party in its fight to recapture the White House.

Neither Taft nor Bricker has announced his candidacy formally, but both have been listed high on the roster of possible GOP presidential nominees.

Today's disclosure eased the confusion surrounding the two Ohio favorite sons.

Both Made Bids.

Taft made a bold bid for the GOP nomination in 1940, but lost out in the last-minute surge of the late Wendell Willkie. Bricker won second place on the unsuccessful 1944 ticket headed by New York Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

Bricker, then governor of Ohio, supported Taft in the 1940 fight and Taft, not a candidate himself, returned the compliment four years later. GOP leaders in Ohio fear that if the two were candidates in 1948 a split would develop within the delegation which might kill the chances of both.

Taft announced recently that he has decided to accept the chairmanship of the senate labor committee—a post that will keep him very much in the public eye for the next two years. In addition, he is slated to head the powerful GOP senate steering committee.

Then came statements and counter-statements.

The Columbus, O., Dispatch reported that Bricker, who will be a freshman senator, has decided to step aside in favor of his senior colleague.

Bricker promptly issued a statement saying that he had authorized no one to make such an assertion.

"Inasmuch as I have not at any time said I was a candidate, it would certainly be untimely for me to discuss the matter of (convention) delegates at this time," Bricker said.

Taft said he would make no definite decision on the question of his candidacy for president until after the coming session of congress adjourns later in 1947.

He said that, in the 80th congress, the Republicans will have a full job "reorganizing congress and enacting a Republican program on the immediate problems of reconversion now before the American people."

"The less personal ambition and presidential politics are mixed up with that job, the more likely we are to succeed," he added. "As for presidential politics, it is still 18 months before the Republican convention of 1948."

Wynn Goodman, vice president, Ben Friedman; vice president, George B. Hayden; vice president, Harold C. Schott; treasurer, Dale G. O'Roke; secretary, Walter E. Schott, jr., assistant secretary, H. J. Van denEyden; assistant treasurer, A. W. Brown. The new associates on the board are Walter E. Schott and Harold C. Schott.

CARDINAL ACE LEADS LEAGUE SECOND TIME

Brooklyn's Ed Head Hurls Lone No-Hitter.

By BOB GRUBB

NEW YORK—(AP)—Handsome Howie Pollet, trim lefthander of the world champion St. Louis Cardinals, has for the second time in his comparatively brief career won the distinction of being the most effective hurler in the National league.

The 25-year-old southpaw from Houston by way of New Orleans led in the earned run averages with a mark of 2.10, followed by the Braves' Johnny Sain with 2.21, figures just released from the 1946 season disclose.

In addition, Pollet also led in total innings pitched, 266, and won the most games, 21. First southpaw to win 20 National league games since Cliff Melton and Carl Hubbell of the Giants in 1937, Pollet was one of only two 20-game winners in the loop. The other was Sain, who had an even 20.

Pollet paced the circuit with a 1.75 mark in 1943 although he played only half the season before entering the Army Air Force. Returning last spring, he started most of the Red Birds' crucial games in their uphill drive to the pennant.

Manager Eddie Dyer's No. 1 man after Max Lanier left for Mexico, Pollet strained a back muscle in mid-September and never regained full effectiveness. He beat Brooklyn in the first playoff game for the pennant, however, and worked a brilliant but losing world series opener against the Boston Red Sox.

Another Cardinal, little righthander Murry Dickson, compiled the best winning percentage with 15 victories against six defeats for .714. Ewell Blackwell, Cincinnati's sensational yearling, tossed the most shutouts, six.

The Brooklyn Dodgers' Ed Head turned in the only no-hitter, an early-season whitewash job on the Braves. Sain hurled the most complete games, 24. Johnny Schmitz of the Chicago Cubs struck out the most batsmen, 135, while rookie Montia Kennedy of the Giants allowed the most bases on balls, 116.

The Cardinals also captured the team hurling laurels, compiling a 3.01 earned run average. The Dodgers show the second best figure with 3.05 and the Reds placed third with 3.07.

The Dodgers, using eight men on the mound in their night game with the Phillies Sept. 25, established a National league record for most pitchers in a game and tied the major league mark. The Dodgers and the Braves had equalled the former NL record earlier in the season.

Duquesne Cagers May Cancel Game

PITTSBURGH — (CP) — Chick Davies, Duquesne university basketball coach, said today that he would recommend cancelling his team's scheduled game with Miami on Jan 15 because the presence on his team of Charlie Cooper, a Negro, may conflict with southern rules

The University of Tennessee cancelled its scheduled game with Duquesne at Pittsburgh last Monday night because Davies and the rest of the Duquesne team determined to play Cooper if he were needed

Penn State cancelled its football game with Miami last month because the Lions' roster included two Negro players.

West All-Stars Resume Daily Gridiron Drills

MENLO PARK, Calif —(CP)— Coach Homer Norton's West football team which meets the East in the annual Shrine game on Jan 1, resumed its policy of two daily drills today after its single punting session yesterday

In yesterday's drill Norton, Texas A & M mentor, emphasized protection for the punter, punt blocking and punting

Area Hardwood Slate's Light Friday Night

Area basketball is at its lowest ebb this week as most of the team are digging out from under that Yuletide turkey and preparing for the drive towards district and state titles.

Only Mansfield Senior high and Bucyrus are scheduled for action tomorrow night. The Mansfield Tygers travel to Elyria while Bucyrus entertains the Fostoria Redmen.

Coach Vern Hoffman's charges concluded their drills this morning for their crucial tilt with Elyria. The Tygers saw their three-game winning streak broken at the hands of Columbus Bexley, 62-50, last week and will be out for their fifth win tomorrow. The Bengals have lost two.

Elyria has won only two of five games but will have a decided height advantage and the added benefit of playing on its own court. The three losses were to tough Cleveland teams: Lakewood, 42-55; Heights, 45-63 and Lincoln, 41-42. Elyria defeated Amherst, 45-33 and Sandusky, 52-49.

Vic Janowicz, clever forward, is the only letterman on the Elyria five which edged Mansfield 57 to 55 last season. He stands 5-9 and will be joined by Johnny Krusz, Ralph Moyer, Ollie Glass and Bill Bock in the starting lineup.

Krusz, 6-4 soph center, is the No. 1 scoring threat. He swished in 27 points against Lakewood.

The Tyger varsity and sophmore teams leave for Elyria tomorrow afternoon.

Next Bengal home appearance will be Jan. 3 against Lima Central.

FIRST PRO TILT BOOKED MONDAY

Professional basketball returns to Mansfield after a five year lapse Monday night at the Senior high gym at 7:30.

Joe Lesch, president of the City A basketball league, has secured the New York Komedy Kings, nationally famous colored quintet, to meet the Columbus Pros.

Three players from the Negro National Inter-Collegiate championship South Carolina State cage team of 1943-44 form the backbone of the Komedy Kings.

Billy Copeland, All-American from the Southern school, leads the Kings against Columbus. Ezra Moore, and Leon Jones played with Cope at Carolina.

Others on the team are: Shant Barnett, Meharry Medical School in Nashville; Casey Jones, Paul Quinn College, Texas; Maxie McCray, Tuskegee, and Frankie Clemons, Toledo University. Clemons made the All-Madison Square Garden team in 1942.

The Kings are one of the best crowd pleasers on the road today. "Circus Eddie" Hamman, who presents his "Gags and Giggles" show, before the game and at half-time, is a one man show for the Kings.

Last season the New York cagers won 87 games while dropping 12.

Big 9 Teams Play Non-Loop Contests

CHICAGO —(AP)— Western conference basketbal teams rested over the Christmas holiday but three of the squads went back to work today in preparation for full week-end schedules against non-conference foes

Two of the Big Nine quintets—Ohio State and Minnesota—will be in action on the Pacific coast. The Buckeyes are scheduled in games tomorrow and Saturday against California and the Gophers, undefeated in six pre-conference games, have contests on the same nights against Washington.

Ohio State dropped a 52 to 46 contest to Washington Monday night for its first defeat. Michigan will be the third Big Nine team playing over the week-end, meeting Iowa State tomorrow and Saturday.

Indoor rowing for Syracuse's crew candidates will get underway soon. The sport is being resumed after a wartime lapse

Newark High School Hoopsters Face Tough Weekend of Action

By JOHN BARRINGTON

Newark high school's Wildcats faced a week-end of basketball action today that could qualify them either as destiny's tots or fate's fall-guys.

Coach Max Douglas sends his Wildcats against two undefeated teams, Middletown and Hamilton, on successive nights.

Friday night, the state champion Middies risk their record of 31 straight victories, five of them this year, against Newark.

Saturday, Hamilton carries another mark of five in a row into battle with the 'Cats.

Newark carried off state championship honors in 1937, 1938 and 1943. This season, the Wildcats had won five straight before Coshocton spilled them, 46 to 27, last week.

Observers predicted dire things for Middletown as the class "A" titlists began the current season shorn of most of their 1945-46 regulars, including Paul Lansaw, two-time all-state choice. Personnel changes, however, have failed to impede the rampaging downstaters.

Key man in Hamilton's early season drive has been a lad with the familiar name of Joe Nuxhall. The high scoring center was one of the best fullbacks in scholastic ranks this fall and is such a fine baseball pitcher he lost a year's high school eligibility by signing a professional contract.

Two basketball carnivals share the spotlight with Newark's big week-end.

At Lima, tournament participants Friday and Saturday are Toledo Woodward, Lorain, Findlay and Lima Central. Woodward, Toledo's defending city champion, is undefeated in five games.

Toledo Waite, New Philadelphia, Dayton Stivers and Springfield will play the other tourney at Springfield. The host club boasts the best record, five victories in six attempts.

A heavy toll was taken among previously unbeaten teams last week Massillon lost its first to Canton Lehman, winner of four straight, 47 to 44 Akron Buchtel was upset by Cleveland South, 39 to 37. Unbeaten Salem handed Columbiana its first defeat in six games, 33-25.

Other major teams still undefeated include Columbus Upper Arlington, Akron Garfield, Canton Lehman, Akron Ellet, Canton McKinley, East Liverpool, Lowellville and Niles

Bears Smash Crowd Marks

CHICAGO —(INS)— The "Bear" facts were out for all to see today, and they sure were whoppers—the Chicago Bears drew more than three quarters of a million fans in 1946, setting a new overall pro football mark and smashing half a dozen other records along the way.

In 17 games during the past campaign, the citizens of George Halas U. attracted a total of 754,546 patrons, almost a quarter of a million more than the 511,000 who gave the Green Bay Packers a record overall gate last year.

The National league champs attracted the all-time record pro gate of 92,800 at Philadelphia on Sept. 13—for an exhibition game!

The Bruins' 17-game account (which included exhibition affairs), could be smoothed down to an average draw of 44,385 per contest

Next in total attendance were the Cleveland Browns, champions of the All-America Football conference, who drew 690,097 payees in 16 games (average 43,131); the New York Giants, 636,040 in 15 games (average 42,402); and the Los Angeles Rams, 606,391 in 14 games (average 43,413).

Southern Throws Potent T-Party For Tuskegee

DALLAS, Tex —(AP)—Operating from a T-formation that had speed, precision and power, Southern university of Baton Rouge, La., reeled off ten touchdowns yesterday afternoon to whip favored Tuskegee Institute of Alabama, 64-7, in the first Yam Bowl football game

Rizzo and Risen Lead Pro Scorers

CHICAGO—(INS)—Jerry Rizzo of the Syracuse Nationals and Arnold Risen of the Indianapolis Kautskys were in a neck-and-neck fight today for the national basketball league's scoring leadership

Weekly figures released by the N. B. L. yesterday saw Rizzo, ex-Fordham university star, leading by one slim point—185 to 184 for Risen, lanky center who once shone at Ohio State.

Risen, however, has played in only 13 games as opposed to 16 for Rizzo, so his per-game average of 14.1 is much the best in the loop.

Americans Win Opening Davis Cup Matches

By GAYLE TALBOT

MELBOURNE — (AP) — Ted Schroeder's smashing upset victory over John Bromwich and Jack Kramer's easy triumph over Dinny Pails in the opening matches of Davis cup play today virtually extinguished Australia's hopes of retaining the international tennis trophy.

The two Americans, trying to bring back the symbol of world tennis supremacy which has been held Down Under since 1939, team up tomorrow to tangle with Bromwich and Adrian Quist in a doubles match which could—and should—clinch the cup for the United States.

It was Schroeder's genuinely great triumph over the two-hand-swinging Bromwich in the first match of the series which set the tone for Australian gloom. About the only comfort the Aussies could find was in the memory of the last Davis cup matches in 1939, when they won the cup after losing the first two singles encounters.

Seldom in the history of Tennis has a player of any country given a greater demonstration of gameness and sheer determination than did Schroeder in turning back Bromwich, 3-6, 6-1, 6-2, 0-6, 6-3. Kramer beat Pails in straight sets, 8-6, 6-2, 9-7, hardly bothering to leave the baseline in accomplishing the win.

Never for an instant in the long gruelling struggle did Schroeder relax the pressure. If he had, it probably would have been fatal, for Bromwich always was waiting and ready to pounce if given an opportunity.

When the Aussie raced through six straight games in the fourth set, it appeared he might have taken Schroeder's measure, but the former U. S. navy flier, visibly weary from the strain of his tremendous effort, had that little extra something which enabled him to come through in the deciding set.

The big crowd in Kooyong stadium gave Schroeder a tremendous five-minute ovation after he sliced the last winning placement past Bromwich. And that placement was symbolic of the match. Schroeder scored 52 placements in the match, to only 27 for Bromwich, and blasted many of them when he needed them most.

Illini, UCLA Buckle Down

PASADENA, Calif.—(AP)—Their one-day holiday past, the Illinois and U. C. L. A. football teams returned to the rather grim business of preparing for their Rose bowl engagement, one that may be decided by the field generalship and passing of the rival quarterbacks.

The Illini has its Perry Moss, a sturdy, broad shouldered blond lad of 20, who weighs about 174 pounds and stands 5 feet 10; the Bruins have Ernie Case, all-coast quarterback, who is 26, married, a father, a war veteran of combat, and physically about the same size as Moss.

In the passing department, Case had the better record.

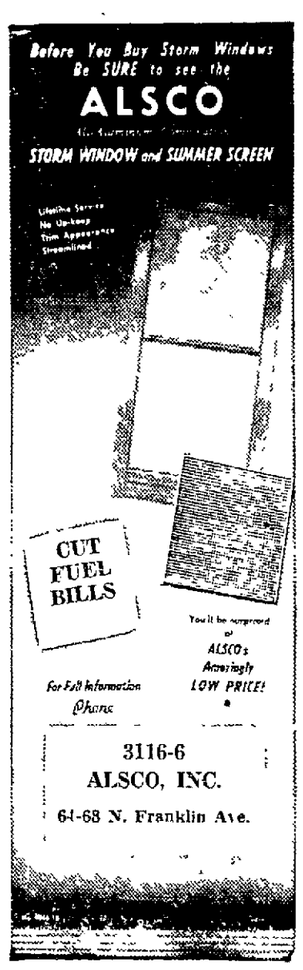
From all accounts, the two are equal in coolness under fire, and leadership.

Graziano, Shanks Fight Cancelled

NEW YORK — (INS) — Cowboy Reuben Shanks' scheduled appearance in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night was formally cancelled yesterday leaving the local arena without a prize fight for this week.

Shanks originally was scheduled to meet Rocky Graziano, but the latter pleaded a back injury and Shanks then declined to take on Jake Lamotta, another local middleweight, as a substitute.

The Denver middleweight possibly will be rescheduled against Graziano for a bout next month.



Leo the Lip's Antics Bother Baseball People

By LAWTON CARVER

NEW YORK—(INS)—Some of the baseball people are a little perturbed over the antics of Brooklyn's Lippy Leo Durocher.

While they admit he has done nothing wrong in a baseball sense, they still feel that he is giving himself and baseball much the worst of it through his various extra-curricular activities which in recent months have kept his name in the headlines.

Leo is a rough free-wheeling sort of a guy who means no harm perhaps, but he seems unable to go quietly about his career as a baseball manager, and the old guard—bred to the belief that baseball is a dignified calling beyond the common obscenities of life—are slightly aghast at times.

When Branch Rickey came upon the Brooklyn scene Durocher was made to promise publicly that there would be no more high-rolling poker games on the club, and there was talk of his being expected to shun known gamblers.

For a time after that, he was virtually a living breathing replica of the good little boy. Then that dice game was held in his apartment and a sucker beefed. Durocher wasn't home that evening, but it was his apartment and some of the baseball people were outwardly concerned over such goings on.

There was the case, too, in which he was alleged to have punched a Brooklyn fan, then came garish news stories from Hollywood about his love life, and a piece about his being nailed for speeding.

You can pick all that apart and not find much basis for argument against the fellow, but when you put all the items together you have a picture of a strange sort of baseball manager.

For the most part they are only a little less jealous of the fair name of their profession than an umpire, and try in their own sometimes fumbling way to live an unimpeachable life.

Durocher is cut from an entirely different pattern. He fancies himself a fair sort of actor because of his frequent appearances on the radio and rumored offers for roles in Hollywood, and he has just enough of that old Westphalian in his makeup to cut a figure one way and another.

He may be and probably is the best and the highest-salaried manager in the majors. He is a terrific fighter on the ball field, and, despite a lack of popularity with many fans, he still is the best possible choice to run the Brooklyn club. He and that club were made to order for each other. He fits into that sort of setting.

Hoosier Pete Now Under T

SAN FRANCISCO—(AP)—East co-coaches Andy Kerr and Bernie Bierman, apparently deciding not to put all their Shrine game eggs in the winback basket, hatched out one of the biggest "T" formation quarterbacks in the business today in 205-pound Pete Pihos of Indiana.

Heretofore exponents of single and double wing play for the New Year's day classic, Kerr and Bierman experimented with Pihos as the man under the center in Christmas day practices.

The West already is depending on the "T" for victory and, perhaps sensing the East's new move, practiced a defense against the formation yesterday as well as countering play for the wingback style they expect to be the east's strongest threat.

An old east-west hand, Pihos played in the 1944 game as an end. This year he was billed as a fullback, the spot in which he played for Bo McMillin's Hoosiers the past season, tossing 11 passes and completing seven with no interceptions.

Shifting Pihos to quarterback put Paul (Manny) Weaver of Penn State at full, in a straight swap. Weaver is a blocking quarter in the single and double wing.

'Old Stretch' Leads Scoring

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Any doubt as to aging Ed Sadowski's value to the Cleveland Rebels was dispelled today by Basketball Association of America scoring statistics.

According to latest figures, "Old Stretch," ousted playing coach for Toronto before traded to Cleveland, leads the Rebels in points per game with an average of 17.

Although the giant center trails forward Mel Reibe in total scoring, 294 markers to 238, Sadowski has played in seven less games. Reibe's points-per-contest mark is 14.0.

Frankie Baumholtz trails Reibe with 249 points in 21 encounters for an average of 11.8 tallies per game.

The Rebels next game will be against the Chicago Stags Sunday night at the Cleveland arena. Chicago has taken all three previous clashes with Cleveland this season.

The second place Rebels now trail Chicago by three and one-half games in the loop's western division.

Postpone Bout

CHICAGO —(AP)— The 10-round boxing bout between Ezzard Charles, Cincinnati light heavyweight, and Booker Beckwith of Gary, Ind., scheduled for Monday night has been postponed to Feb. 3 because of a hand injury suffered by Charles.

Historical Novels Top List Of New Books at City Library

Historical fact and fiction will highlight the new books to be placed in circulation Monday at the Mansfield Public library.

THE BORDER LORD, by Jan Westcott, is a historical novel, which takes place in Scotland at the time of the Border Wars. The story revolves around the chief of the lowland clansmen and the ladies of the court. On the throne was James Stuart, son of Mary, Queen of Scots. In the hands of the Border Lord lay the secret that could cost a kingdom, and while the air of Scotland filled with treachery, he escaped and called his men for reckless conquest.

With insight and imagination, Hermann Kesten wrote FERDINAND AND ISABELLA. It is a fictionalized account of two of history's most fascinating people. It tells Isabella's role in connection with sending Columbus on the quest which was the ridicule of his age. Because the author has probed into the minds and hearts of his characters the reader finished the book with a new and penetrating picture of the Spanish Queen and those around her.

THAT SKIPPER FROM STONINGTON, by Theda Kenyon, is the story of Mardy, who at 15 eloped with "that skipper" despite disapproval of her family. Dick dreamed of the ships he would one day build—and he laid plans for a two-year whaling trip. And though something happened each time; it was this that made him a great shipbuilder and inventor. This is the romantic novel of the men who went down to sea and the women who waited at home.

COUNTRY JAKE is the second book in Charles B. Driscoll's Kansas trilogy and it takes you back to his boyhood and youth on a Kansas farm. He had a typically American dream—the dream of an education as an escape from the dreary monotony of farm life. The incidents he relates are the common heritage of many, but the book tells the story of a boy in quest of an education.

When Jefferson Davis assumed the presidency of the Confederacy, he took a leading part in the only great try at rebellion that this country ever witnessed. CRAWFORD FARMERS ARE PAID $99,937

BUCYRUS — A total of $99,937 in conservation payments in the AAA crop program was allocated to Crawford county in 1946, Dean F. Barr, county AAA chairman, reported today.

The payments averaged more than $66 for each of the county's 1,510 participating farms or an average of 80 cents per crop acre.

Barr was re-elected chairman for 1947 when the ten AAA delegates from the county met to reorganize Saturday. Harry F. Fauser was elected vice chairman and Vernon Solze, Texas township, was named regular member. Homer Wentz, Bucyrus township, was named first alternate and James I. Will, Jackson township, was made second alternate.

OHIO FARMERS FACE LOWERED INCOME IN '47

AAA Expert Foresees Slash In High Crop Prices.

By FREEMAN FULBRIGHT

COLUMBUS—(NS)—Ohio farmers tasted the cream of their latter-day prosperity in 1946. Income in 1947 possibly will be somewhat less, as it was in the second years after the war of 1812, the civil war, and World War I.

Such is the history book interpretation of Elmer Kruse of the U. S. Agriculture department. Kruse is boss of farm production work for the AAA in Ohio.

He believes that a period of "natural adjustment" will begin during 1947, and that high prices now received by farmers will recess.

Kruse summed up his predictions by crops thusly:

"Wheat—the prospects are good, but the export demand is bound to slacken. Prices may slacken with a big crop.

"Corn—prices already reflect the enormous crops of the past years.

"Hogs—I do not look for prices to break before late summer because of the short supply.

"Milk—the market will not continue as strong, although it should maintain a good level. The demand is greater than the overall possible production.

"Poultry—unless farmers are careful, eggs may hit a low price by spring. Also, it is more strongly indicated that prices of poultry for meat will drop when beef and pork supplies increase."

This past year, Kruse said, Ohio farmers enjoyed considerable success, not only from the standpoint of overall income, but also from the point of production.

The demise of price controls in the latter half of the year did much to increase the farmers' incomes, he said.

The Buckeye wheat crop was "unusually good," averaging 24 bushels to the acre for a total indicated harvest of near 50 million bushels.

This output was 10 million bushels below that of '45, but higher prices brought the farmer almost the same return.

Estimated total corn yield for this year was 183 million bushels, compared with 176 million bushels in 1945. Kruse said the export program helped farmers financially with their corn.

Ohio ranked fourth behind Iowa, Illinois and Indiana in soybean output with an indicated crop of 18 million bushels.

Although acreage planted was far below the five year average, Ohio's potato crop was estimated at 7,280,000 bushels.

Tobacco Yield Down.

The tobacco yield was down from 22,670,000 pounds in '45 to 22,285,000, and first sales late in the year indicated a "slippage of 10 cents a pound."

Buckeye farmers turned out 225,000 short tons of sugar beets this year, compared with 208,000 tons in 1945, and prices were better.

Milk production reached an all-time high of 5,460,000 pounds—an average of 5,100 pounds for each of the 1,082,000 dairy cows on Ohio farms.

Chickens numbered 29,221,000 head, and turkeys, 1,097,000 head. Kruse said the turkey market was not as strong as previously because of the increased supplies of other meats during the gobbler season.

Three billion eggs were estimated to have been produced in the state during the year. The actual count by Oct. 1 was 2,404,000,000.

Predicts More Hogs.

Hog production was down, Kruse added, and prices were strong. He blamed the short output on the unfavorable ratio of feed prices to pork prices under OPA. He said he believed there would be a "considerably larger" crop of porkers next year.

In 1945 there were 350,000 pigs in spring litters, compared with 400,000 this year. Kruse estimated a litter figure of 460,000 for '47.

Beef cattle increased steadily in number during 1946, the AAA chief continued. At the beginning of the year there were 99,000 head on farms in the state. The five year average is 62,000 head. Kruse 109,000 head by the first of 1947.

The sheep population continued a downward trend begun six years ago. At the end of the year there were an estimated 1,275,000 head in Ohio, compared with a five-year average of 1,952,000 head.

Kruse was gloomy about the future wool mart, saying there was practically enough wool in government warehouses to run the country for the next year.

Ohio fruits varied in yield throughout the state, crops totaling about 60 per cent of normal.

The production expert predicted that farmers would be less troubled with a shortage of labor during the new year, although still plagued by the lack of new, adequate machinery.

SMART CANARY

HAYS, Kans.—(NS)—"Petie," a canary owned by Mrs. Alex Bissing of Hays, refused to sing after his leg was broken in an encounter with a dog. Then Dr. Foster Kordish, a veterinarian, put Petie's leg in a cast and the songster resumed his customary chirping.

JUST A SLIGHT ERROR

CANTON, Okla.—(AP)—A. T. Stairs, inspecting an apartment house he had constructed, watched as the utilities were turned on. Suddenly water began spurting out of the new gas ranges and bathroom heaters. Investigation revealed the plumbers had connected the water to the gas pipe, and the gas fixtures to the water pipe.

ITALY FACING SHOWDOWN BY RIVAL FORCES

By JOHN P. McKNIGHT

ROME—(AP)—The inescapable logic of events, combined with the rivalries of her public men, appears to be pushing Italy inexorably toward the long-predicted showdown between her fast coalescing right and left.

A house divided against itself since the republic edged out the Savoy monarchy in the June 2 plebiscite, Italy has marveled at the political acrobatics which kept Premier Alcide de Gasperi's four-party government precariously perched on the tight rope of power.

Now, however, although there are few to say that the rest of the act's run could be counted in days or weeks, there are many to agree that the chief factor in its difficult balance—the desire to keep the balance—is disappearing.

If Socialist Foreign Minister Petro Nenni, ardent exponent of "joint action" with the Communists, was not getting ready to kick the four-party combine to pieces and try to set up a worker's government, then he was talking through his beret this last weekend.

And if de Gasperi's middle-of-the-road Christian Democrats, disgusted with the fruits of four months of attempting to work with the left were not actually standing on the doorstep of the renascent right, they certainly were sauntering in that direction.

To complicate matters, the little Republican party, fourth group represented in the government, was reported preparing to take a "plague o' both your houses

Chinese Eager to Try Pu Yi, Puppet Ruler of Manchuria

SHANGHAI—(U.P.)—With Wang Ching-wei, puppet Nanking government president, dead and his successor Chen Kung-po executed, the Chinese still are eager to bring Henry Pu Yi before their war-crimes court.

Much resentment was felt by the Chinese over delay by the Russians in handing over the "boy emperor" to the Chinese government. It was felt that Moscow, well aware of the Chinese intention to put Pu Yi on trial, could have surrendered the wanted man to the Chinese representatives in Tokyo instead of keeping him at the Soviet Embassy and stressing that the twice-deposed monarch, while testifying at the Japanese war crimes trial, is still "in Russian custody."

If ever handed over to the Chinese government and if ever placed before the Chinese court to face treason charges, the trial of Pu Yi is expected to reveal the intimate and intricate secrets of the Forbidden City fom the days when Empress Dowager Tzu Hsi picked the little boy for the Chinese "dragon throne" to Henry's eviction from the palaces to live in Tientsin, where he became the central figure in repeated restoration plots.

Chosen by Empress.

Chinese historians agree that Pu Yi never would have been emperor of China if it was not for Empress Tzu Hsi's ambition to rule the country behind the scenes. As it was, the thin, bespectacled, thicklipped, slope-shouldered man spent the greater portion of his life as a puppet.

If the all-powerful empress dowager had strictly observed the Manchu rules of succession, she would not have chosen Pu Yi as emperor. He happened to be the youngest of the princes of blood and his father happened to be the Empress' close friend. So at the age of four, he ascended the throne of the Empire of China. There he remained for three eventful years—a puppet of his great aunt and later his own father.

Removed from the throne on February 12, 1912, after the republican revolution, Pu Yi was accorded special privileges to remain in the Forbidden City, to be treated as a foreign monarch. The peace treaty with the republican government provided that he was to be paid $4,000,000 annually for the upkeep of the imperial family.

Stays in Forbidden City.

Still an emperor, to his immediate family and the die-hard royalist, Pu Yi resided inside the palaces within the thick yellow walls for the next 16 years. Then the many civil wars of the young republic touched the Forbidden City. Henry and his family fled to Tientsin, where they converted a large mansion into a miniature Forbidden City.

It was there that Pu Yi was contacted by the Japanese and eventually taken to Manchuria in 1932 to be chief executive of the newly inaugurated Manchurian government, and later Emperor Kang Teh of Manchukuo.

He remained on the Japanese-installed throne for 13 years—a puppet again, this time with the Japanese pulling the strings.

When and if the trial of Pu Yi opens, it is expected that the defense would air grievances which were known to have been cherished by the former "boy emperor" against the Chinese Republic. He would show that he was cut off from the promised annual allowance shortly after the peace pact was signed, and that he and his family were driven away from the Forbidden City despite earlier agreements that they might remain indefinitely.

But the big question remains: When will the Russians hand him over to the Chinese government?

His Long Legs Beat the Bus

SYRACUSE, N. Y.—(AP)—If the Syracuse Transit company had to depend on persons like Gordon R. Johnson for patronage, it would go broke.

During the 13 years Johnson has been a license clerk at City Hall, he reports, he has taken the bus only twice. Both times it was raining hard.

Buses are uncomfortable for his six foot two-inch frame.

"If I get a seat my knees are jammed up against the seat in front and if I have to stand my head is bouncing off the ceiling," he added.

SOLVES PROBLEM

PORTLAND, Ore.—(INS)—Rev. George E. Hardy could find neither a house nor a car at his new post at Highland Baptist church. He solved these problems by housing his wife and child with a church family and uses a bicycle to call on his flock.
